

Big Oil Patch Indicates Loss Of Flying Boat

Message Shows Clipper May Have Plunged Into Sea SEARCH CONTINUES Discovery Made Directly On Course of Hawaii Clipper

Manila—(AP)—The army transport Meigs found a large patch of oil on the surface of the Pacific ocean today, indicating the missing Hawaii Clipper may have plunged into the sea 500 miles from Manila.

The Meigs made no mention of sighting any wreckage from the luxurious flying boat which disappeared with 15 men on a flight from Guam to Manila Friday. (Thursday night, Pacific time.)

Two lifeboats were put out by the transport to search the tell tale oil slick but were recalled at nightfall. The transport stood by where the slick was found, intending to resume search at dawn Sunday. (Saturday afternoon in the United States.)

Her searchlights played on the surrounding sea but her captain said he did not expect much to be accomplished before daylight.

The Meigs said the coating of heavy oil was about 1,500 feet in circumference, which experts said was "quite large" for a plane the size of the clipper.

No Other Explanation

But marine men were unable to suggest any other cause for the slick, an oil coating such as plane leaves on the surface of the water when sinking.

The slick was found directly on the course of the 26-ton flying boat. It was sighted approximately 50 miles west by southwest of the last position reported by the clipper. This would mean that, if the slick were caused by oil from the Hawaii Clipper, the flying boat remained in the air for about 20 minutes after her last radio message.

The lifeboats from the Meigs collected samples of oil from the surface to help determine whether it were from the flying boat.

Extremely Deep Water

If the Hawaii clipper sank there, little hope was held of finding the wreckage; for the slick may lay over deep waters, ranging to a depth of 5,325 fathoms. These waters, about 400 miles east of San Bernardino strait, are among the deepest around the Philippines.

Pan American Airways headquarters in San Francisco held hope the oil was dumped on the surface by the flying boat for emergency landing and the clipper came down safely, subsequently drifting out to sea faster than the oil.

They said the clipper carried heavy "anchor" oil to calm the seas in just such an event. Pan American men here said they did not know about any "anchor" oil but suggested the clipper might have dumped oil to lessen her load preparatory to alighting.

Neither explanation accounted for the failure of the clipper to radio an emergency landing was necessary, nor to report later by her wireless which was capable of communicating while the flying boat drifted on the sea.

"NOT CONCLUSIVE"

San Francisco—(AP)—Pan American Airways officials said today they considered the finding of an oil patch on the Guam-to-Manila course of the missing Hawaii Clipper "significant, but not conclusive."

The search will continue, the company said.

The statement was a company confirmation of an earlier report from the army transport Meigs stating a large patch of oil had been found on the sea, indicating the luxurious flying boat may have plunged into the ocean 500 miles from Manila.

The company said its operations department in Manila reported same.

"There Was A Little Girl"

Who had a little curl, right in the center of her forehead when she was good, she was very, very good, and when she was bad, she was horrid.

Very few people know that this simple little rhyme is credited to Longfellow. The immortal poet was supposed to have written it to illustrate to his children the pronunciation and rhyming of the words "forehead" and "horrid."

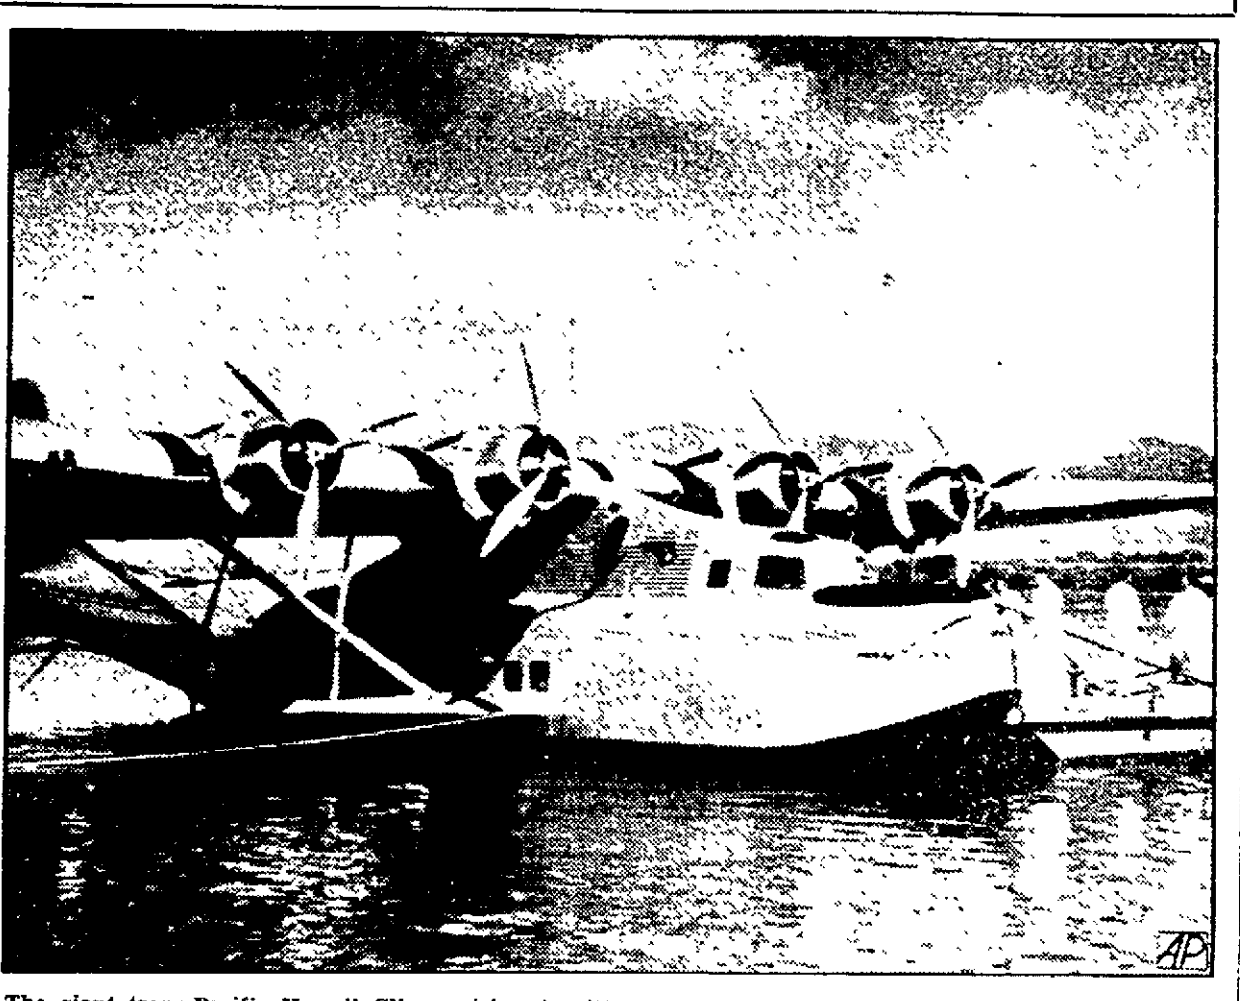

Post-Crescent Want-Ads are not written in rhyme, of course, but they do illustrate how quickly and economically results can be obtained. Here's an example:

HOUSEKEEPER

Between Ages 25-40. Full charge. Call 1846.

Ad ran only one night. Had about 100 calls and hired party.

OIL FOUND ON OCEAN HINTS AT CLIPPER'S FATE

The giant trans-Pacific Hawaii Clipper (above) with 15 persons aboard, was reported missing on its 1,600-mile flight from Guam to Manila, the Philippines. The last message from the plane came when it was 565 miles from Manila. A "thick oil area" was reported discovered by the army transport Meigs on the surface of the Pacific ocean at about the spot the missing clipper was last reported. This indicated the 26-ton flying boat sank, presumably with the 15 men still aboard her, on her flight from Guam to Manila Thursday night. The message said the oil slick was about 1,500 feet in circumference.

Iowa Farm-Labor Leaders Consider Change of Name

Party May Be Merged With LaFollette's National Progressives

Des Moines—(AP)—The Iowa Farm-Labor party faced the alternative today of merging its identity with the National Progressive movement of Governor Phil LaFollette of Wisconsin or continuing under the banner of Minnesota's dominant political organization.

Leaders of the Iowa party gathered today for a state convention in which the question of changing the name was a paramount issue.

CIO union leaders from Newton, Iowa, meanwhile petitioned the party to "do all in your power to defeat the Republican party in the state of Iowa."

A delegation of five leaders of the striking CIO local at the Maytag Washing Machine plant at Newton visited the convention today as "observers."

Would Back Democrat

One of the union officials here, who refused to be quoted by name, interpreted the telegram to mean that the union asked the Farmer-Labor party to withdraw its candidate for governor in support of Governor Nelson G. Kraschel on the Democratic ticket, or to refrain from adopting the title of "Progressive."

The third district caucus, meanwhile, adopted a resolution commending the policies of Governor Kraschel in handling the Maytag strike.

Wallace Short, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, when notified of the CIO telegram, said: "I shall do my best to defeat both of them." (Governor Kraschel and George Wilson, Republican gubernatorial candidates.)

Woman to be Named To Industrial Body

Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—Governor Lehman has announced he will appoint Miss Frieda S. Miller state industrial commissioner to succeed Elmer F. Andrews, recently appointed federal wage-hour law administrator.

Miss Miller has been director of the bureau of women in industry since 1929, having had charge of surveys which led to establishment of minimum wages in the laundry industry, hotels and restaurants and beauty parlors.

Appointment of Miss Miller will give New York state its second woman industrial commissioner. Miss Francis Perkins served in that capacity until President Roosevelt called her to Washington to be the nation's first woman secretary of labor.

Miss Miller, a native of LaCrosse, Wis., was research assistant in the social economy department of Bryn Mawr college in 1916 and 1917, and served as secretary of the Philadelphia Women's Trade Union league from 1918 to 1923.

Roosevelt Prestige Facing Major Tests Next Month in 15 Democratic Primaries

Washington—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration stands to gain great political advantages or lose considerable prestige in Democratic party elections next week.

Six of the 15 primaries scheduled during August will be held within five days. Senate nominations are at stake in Kansas, Missouri, Tennessee and Kentucky, but primaries in Virginia and West Virginia involve only representatives.

The outcome of two senatorial contests Tuesday appears reasonably predictable. Capital politicians believe Senator George McGill, who has only nominal opposition, will win in Kansas, and they expect the Missouri nomination to go to Bennett Clark, an anti-administration leader in the senate.

Thus in the first two major primaries the administration should break about even with conservative Democratic forces.

The third senatorial primary of the week will be Thursday in Tennessee. Senator George L. Berry, traditionally an ardent administrationist but recently cool toward the New Deal, is seeking nomination against several opponents.

It is in the Kentucky race the White House may achieve its greatest victory or suffer its worst defeat, because President Roosevelt has asked to no uncertain terms for the renomination of Senate Majority Leader Barkley over his opponent, Governor A. B. Chandler.

Chinese Claim Advances But Chinese Say They Are Impeding Invaders

Shanghai—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese war dispatches agreed today that a fierce slaughter was in progress in the bitterly-contested Yangtze valley below Hankow.

Japanese maintained generally that their infantry and air force were advancing full speed westward from Kukiang, a Yangtze river port they occupied Tuesday, toward the provisional Chinese capital 135 miles distant.

Chinese, however, asserted their counter-attacks were effective on the south bank of the stream near Hukow and behind Japanese lines, impeding the invaders.

The defenders asserted the Japanese had concentrated 10,000 men from Shantung and Anhwei provinces near Pukow, opposite Nanking, to reinforce the Yangtze troops.

Reports from foreign gunboats above Kukiang said Japanese naval activity in that area had lessened, apparently to await the advance of Japanese infantry.

A bloody battle was reported at Susung. About 25 miles northeast of Kukiang, as Japanese moved through mountain passes to try to make possible a flanking movement for a rearward attack or the northern end of the Chinese line in the Yangtze valley.

Cigarette Butt Blamed For Child's Death in Trailer

Salem, N. H.—(AP)—A cigarette butt "carelessly thrown" into a cushion, today was blamed by Medical Examiner John J. Deacy for starting a fire that snuffed out the life of 5-year-old Ruth Chavez in a parked automobile trailer early today.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Chavez, Chaucouko magicians appearing at nearby McHugh, Mass., had been left alone in the locked machine while her parents were performing.

Tokio Government Blames Russians For Clash Between Border Patrols And Rejects Protest From Moscow

Tokio—(AP)—Japan rejected today a protest by the soviet government over a clash between Russian and Japanese border patrols on the frontier between Manchoukuo and Russian Siberia on grounds that Russia was the aggressor.

Kensuke Horinouchi, vice minister of foreign affairs, declared soviet forces invaded Manchoukuo territory.

The soviet protest was over the fourth clash on the disputed, ill-defined Siberian border this month. It occurred yesterday near Posset bay, close to the borders of Siberia, Japanese Korea and Manchoukuo. Russia contended soviet guards drove "Japanese-Manchurian" forces from Russian soil.

Russia's note demanded punishment of the guilty, and warned "that the soviet government places the entire responsibility for consequences of these actions on organs of the Japanese government in Manchuria."

Uncertainties about boundaries have been bases for a number of clashes since 1931, for there are no natural markers in the rugged border region and maps are outdated. (Meanwhile, Domei Japanese news agency) reported an incident in which 10 Russians were said to have engaged a Japanese patrol yesterday near Chankufeng, but the foreign office in Tokio today denied it.)

Great Gains Seen For Fox Valley in Vast Power Project

Large Power Gains Seen If Projects are Approved

Almost Unlimited Manufacturing Potentialities Would Result
Flood Control, Improved Navigation and Sanitation Foreseen

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Construction of storage reservoirs on the Wolf river and a diversion canal from the Wisconsin river at Portage to bring surplus water from both into the Fox river would more than double the power available from the river flow in the lower Fox river according to the state planning board. While 13 important power sites in the industrial valley section now have available 17,453 horsepower, the addition of existing water from the Wolf and the Wisconsin through the proposed far-flung Wisconsin River development project would increase the total to 53,058, the planning board says.

Here are some of the figures prepared by the board for the principal power sites along the Fox, with present available horsepower, and total horsepower estimated to be possible with the proposed Wisconsin diversion and Wolf storage:

	Available H. P.	Total Est. H. P.
Menasha	761	2,448
Neenah	902	2,900
Upper Appleton	1,525	4,910
Middle Appleton	1,136	3,640

Says Majority of Republic Workers Opposed S. W. O. C.

Washington—(AP)—A youthful-looking former reporter testified today that two steel companies contributed $8,147.50 in 1937 to his one-man campaign to make such "dodo birds" as Senator Neely (D-W. Va.), supreme court justice Hugo Black, Secretary Perkins and Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan "turn around and fly forward."

In the course of the campaign the former newspaperman, James Maxwell, headed a "back to work" movement in Cleveland while the "Little Steel" strike was underway.

Other "dodo birds" he had in mind, Maxwell told the senate civil liberties committee, included Senator Cuffey (D-Pa.), "certain officials of the national labor relations board," and Senator La Follette (D-Wis.), civil liberties chairman.

'Dixie' Davis Wins Parole on Pledge to Testify for State

New York—(AP)—J. Richard "Dixie" Davis, disbarred lawyer and co-defendant with James J. Hines, once a powerful Tammany district leader, in an indictment charging they operated the policy racket once controlled by Dutch Schultz, slain gangster, was paroled today because he has promised to turn state's evidence.

The parole order was signed by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora after assistant district attorney Charles P. Grimes submitted an affidavit stating Davis, a prisoner since February, would testify for the state.

Davis was paroled in District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's custody and will be guarded carefully by detectives. He has been in the Tombs prison in default of $75,000 bail.

Hines and Davis and a third defendant, Martin Weintraub, were to go on trial Aug. 15.

Insurgents Halt Loyalist Drive Along Ebro River on Catalan Front

Hendaye, France (AP)—The Spanish government's smashing offensive on the Catalan front appeared today to have been stopped by insurgent reinforcements hurriedly withdrawn from the drive on Valencia.

The front line along the Ebro river was but little changed in the last 48 hours and the city of Gandesa, district headquarters for the insurgents, still was a no-man's land claimed by both sides.

Government reports of gains were limited to isolated hill tops and crossroads.

The fact, however, that Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco had to pull troops out of the campaign against Valencia was held by government dispatches as evidence that the Catalan offensive had been successful.

The government offensive on the Catalan front now is concentrated in the curve of the Ebro river, from Fayon to Cherta—a semi-circle with Gandesa as its center. Fayon is about 15 miles north-e of Gandesa and Cherta is 10 miles southeast.

Insurgent air raids on the Catalan front were described by the government communiqué as of "enormous intensity" all day yesterday.

Ten planes were said virtually to have destroyed the town of Fabes east of the Ebro. The planes dropped more than 200 bombs in five attacks, killing 40 persons and injuring 100.

Organizers Taken To County Line but Promise to Return

Logan, W. Va.—(AP)—Six organizers for the Progressive Mine Workers of America, escorted to the county line by state police after a melee in which 75 men were involved, promised that "we'll come back."

The union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor opened a membership drive recently in West Virginia, one of the strongholds of the CIO affiliated United Mine Workers of America.

Barney Flaherty, directing the West Virginia drive of the A. F. of L. union, said the organizers came here last night from Charleston at the request of several miners and held a meeting with 25 men in a private home.

They returned to their automobile to find the tires flat. A crowd of men "jumped" one of the organizers and the others went to his assistance. Flaherty said City Patrolman Robert Black, who estimated the crowd at 75, dispersed the men. None was seriously hurt and none was arrested.

As the organizers left with their police escort, Flaherty said: "We'll come back. We're not going to quit. We're here to stay and they had just as well put it in their pipes and smoke it." He did not identify "they."

Garner's Home County Backs Him For President

Uvalde, Texas—(AP)—Vice President John N. Garner's home county, Democrats in convention today endorsed him for the presidency in 1940.

"He has proven himself a wise and sagacious statesman and to be well-qualified to hold the office within the gift of the people," a resolution adopted at the Uvalde county convention said.

"We the Democrats of Uvalde county believe he should be the standard bearer for the Democratic party in 1940."

Garner was named to head the Uvalde county delegation to the state convention in Beaumont.

Refuses Request For Warrants in Records Seizure

Madison—(AP)—Requests by officers of the Allis-Chalmers U.A.W. local for criminal warrants against George Kiebler, U.A.W. district council president, and others, were denied in a written statement by district Attorney Herbert J. Steffes. The requests, drafted by Harold Christoffel, local president, were the outgrowth of a court two weeks ago in which the local's records and cash box were seized.

Arthur W. Richter, an attorney for the local, said upon learning Steffes' decision that Attorney General Orland S. Loomis would be asked to investigate the seizure. He also said an equity action to recover the property would be instituted in civil court.

Malwaukee Boy Wins Junior Championship

Milwaukee—(AP)—Billy Allis, 17-year-old Milwaukee boy, today de-throned Champion Johnny Erickson, 16, of LaCrosse, in the finals of the junior division of the Wisconsin Amateur Golf championships. Allis won three and two.

H. O. Hewitt, Milwaukee, won the intermediate championship, for players 35 to 50 years old, by defeating Earl Pierce, also of Milwaukee 5 and 4.

George Perring, Beloit, won the senior championship, defeating the defending champion, Dr. E. W. Miller, Milwaukee, one up.

Allis and Erickson were all square at the end of the first nine. Erickson lost the 11th hole, squared the match on the 12th, and went one down on the 13th. Allis took the 13th and 16th holes and the title as Erickson three-putted.

'Better Days' in Store for Farmer, Experts Predict

Year's Decline in Agricultural Prices Brought To Halt

Washington —(AP)—Administration experts predicted today that "better days" were ahead for the nation's farmers as a year's decline in agricultural prices came to a halt.

At the lowest point in four years on June 15, the general level of agricultural economics reported. Virtually all commodities shared in the upturn except grains.

Agriculture department economists attributed the upturn principally to an improvement in the general economic situation both in this country and abroad.

The continued decline in wheat prices was attributed to prospects for the second largest crop in this country and the largest world crop. The average price received by farmers dropped from 69 cents a bushel on June 15 to 60 cents on July 15.

AAA officials expressed the belief, however, that government wheat loans soon to be released would keep prices from going much lower. The loan rate will average about 50 cents a bushel.

Chicago —(AP)—Paralleling a mild upturn of general food costs, prices of some meat cuts have risen slightly from near four-year low levels of earlier this year, a market survey disclosed today.

Gains for a few meats, ranging upward to as much as 18 per cent in the wholesale market during July, appeared mostly in beef, veal and pork quotations. Most poorer grade cuts and all lamb prices have declined.

Livestock market experts said the trend in meat reflected a general stiffening of food costs. The springing of the cost of feeding the family was the lowest in almost four years, having dropped sharply since September, 1937, when it was the highest in six years.

Meat Sharply Lower

Meat, leading the break away from the September level, took one of the sharpest drops on record, falling as much as 30 per cent before the start of a recovery. The late spring and summer firmness, experts said, has reflected apparent ability and desire of consumers to absorb smaller supplies than were available in winter. This strength in the retail and wholesale trade, they said, has done much to give livestock prices a more advance the past few months. Hogs and choice steers recently have been quoted the highest since late in 1937.

Survey of wholesale quotations here, which experts said are reflected in part at retail counters, showed the following July trends:

Steer beef: Good and choice increased 3 to 8 per cent; medium lost 2 per cent and common 4.

Cow beef: Good and medium gained 2 per cent; common lost 2.

Veal: Choice and good gained 12 to 18.

Lamb: Choice spring lost 5; good 9.

Pork: Light loins gained 17; medium 18; heavy 2; shoulders 7; spareribs 13.

Two Collisions Cause Damage to Four Cars

Four cars were damaged in two minor traffic accidents on city streets yesterday.

The first occurred about 9 o'clock yesterday morning when cars driven by Frank O. Mermlyen, Milwaukee, and Norman Kirk, 21, 518 S. Telulah street, collided. Vermilyen was going north on Oneida street, Kirk east on Parkway, according to a report given police.

A truck driven by Wilbur Johnson, 26, 616 N. State street, and a car operated by Arthur Hofkens, 23, Kimberly, collided about 2:30 yesterday afternoon. Police said Johnson was going east on Atlantic and Hofkens north on Appleton street when the collision occurred at the intersection.

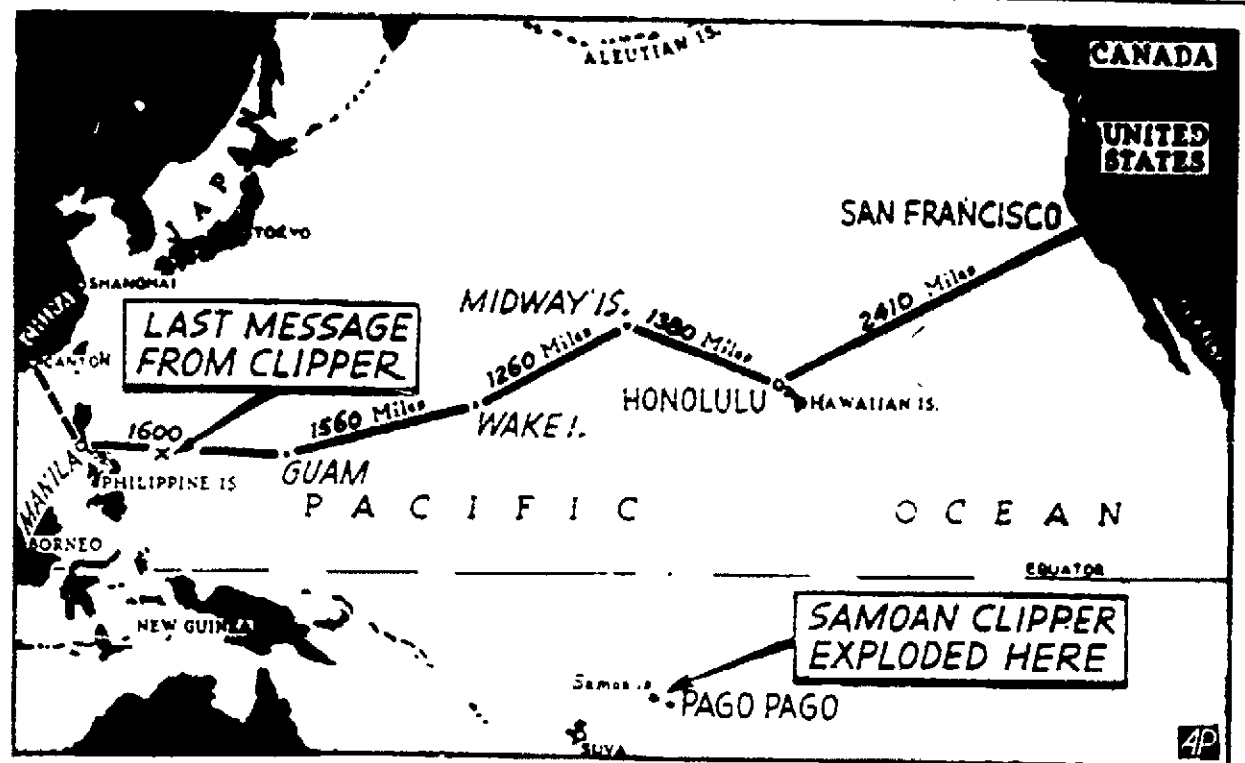

The Post-Crescent yesterday said that a car driven by Miss Mary Dehn, 18, S. State street, was involved in a collision yesterday afternoon with a car driven by Mrs. Berne Nolan, 1307 S. Outagamie street, on Highway 125 about three miles south of Appleton. Violet Pinner, owner and occupant of the Dehn car, said today that the accident occurred as the other machine was passing the car driven by Miss Dehn.

SECTION FOREMAN KILLED

Tigerton, Wis. —(AP)—William Berg, 48, a section foreman for the Chicago and North Western railway, was killed by a train on the northwest of here yesterday.

He was one of the rare occasions upon which the noted industrialist has been bothered about one of his own birthday anniversaries. Usually he has "observed" rather than "celebrated" them—in "just another day at work" in his laboratory or in quiet seclusion at his pretentious camp in the Huron mountains on the south shore of Lake Superior. Today, however, the city of Detroit, along with half a hundred other cities and villages through Michigan, had set aside the diamond anniversary as "Henry Ford day." Ford entered happily into the spirit of the occasion, albeit making some mental reservations as to the importance of birthdays.

He gave over part of the morning and much of the evening to receive greetings from his fellow townspeople and friends of many years.

ROUTE OF VANISHED CLIPPER

This map shows the route of the Hawaii Clipper, Pan-American Airways 26-ton flying ship, which vanished with 15 men aboard when 565 miles from Manila, Philippine Islands. Mussolini Denies Race Policy Is Imitating Reich

'Simply Absurd,' He Says In Reply to Pope's Statement

Forli, Italy —(AP)—Premier Mussolini replied personally today to Pope Pius' assertion that the new fascist race policy was adopted in imitation of Nazi Germany.

Addressing a group of fascist party officials in camp at Forli, Mussolini asserted, "you know and everyone knows that also on the question of race we will shoot straight."

"To say that fascism has imitated anyone or anything is simply absurd."

L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, yesterday quoted the pope in discussing the race doctrine as asking, "why in the world Italy unfortunately felt the need to imitate Germany?"

The pope was addressing missionary students of 37 nationalities who visited him Thursday at his summer residence, Castel Gandolfo.

Mussolini, who left Rome yesterday for his summer place at Rocca Della Caminate, arose early today to make his reply.

At 8 o'clock a. m. he went to camp and made an inspection. Then he addressed the fascist officials.

No Further Comment

The two sentences from his talk referring to imitation of Nazi Germany were distributed by Stefani, official Italian news agency. No further quotes were made available.

Mussolini's remarks were in the sharpest he had used in years toward the Vatican and caused a new uneasiness among Catholics over whether the present trend of fascism was heading toward a break with the church.

The pope in his address referred to the new fascist doctrine which holds that Jews "do not belong to the Italian race" but did not mention Jews by name.

Berlin —(AP)—Pope Pius' denunciation of fascist racial teaching and warning against attacks on Catholic action, drew the ire of the German press today.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels' organ, Der Angriff, was most aggressive of the Berlin papers.

"The Vatican warns against attacking Catholic action," said the propaganda minister's paper, "we herewith announce publication in the near future of a comprehensive series of articles on Catholic action exposing its political activity and deeds endangering whole peoples."

In a War the Beasts are Always on the Other Side

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York —Barbarous it may be of the Spanish rebels and the Japanese to bomb cities, killing women and children in the process, but if the United States ever gets into another war the American aviation will do the same thing. The planes will bomb the enemy's cities and towns without regard for the civilians of either sex or of whatever age, and the destruction seems to be worth the price of the steeples of observation posts, thus driving us to a painful but honorable remedy. The enemy will knock over our steeples, too, and that will be desecration, because our soldiers, of course, will have piously refrained from posting observers in them. Our soldiers will rather go without observation than place a spotter in the steeple of a sacred edifice and give the enemy justification for destroying the same. But yes.

Our aviation will not start the game of bombing civilian populations. The enemy will start that. He will bombard New York or San Francisco, perhaps, claiming that these are military objectives merely because they contain valuable ships, docks, munition plants and military stores and factories. In aiming at these things and the big business and water works and power plants he will use the principle of the shotgun, scattering his bombs over wide areas from great heights, most of which naturally will go wide of the intended marks and land on hospitals, orphanages and the tenements of the poor. The slaughter will be awful, and he will know very well that he is using the military objectives as an excuse for his barbarism and in time will be compelled to use his own methods against his own people.

A bleeding and demoralized civilian population is a great burden on a government which is trying to fight a war in the field and confine the brutality to soldiers. And attacks on the noncombatants in the back areas compel the government to withdraw planes and men from the war zone to defend the people. When the enemy does that to us he will have a foul advantage unless we do the same to him. Our hearts will bleed for the pitiful civilians of his back areas, but their sufferings will be on the heads of their military masters. To equalize the war we will have to make it necessary for him to succeed in bleeding and demoralizing civilian population at the cost of energy and management.

Munson in Attack Upon Coalition in Speech at Brillion

Brillion, Wis. —(AP)—Scoring the coalition movement in Wisconsin as "impracticable, unthinkable, and repulsive," Earl Munson, Cambridge, Progressive candidate for lieutenant governor, in a speech last night described "this attempt to perform a political marriage between the Republican elephant and the Tammany tiger as contrary to all natural biology."

Munson, secretary of the state pardon board, made his opening campaign speech before the Calumet County Progressive club.

Speaking of Republicans and Democrats who have urged union in the coalition movement, Munson said:

"These people forget that there can be only one coalition, a coalition of voters by the same principles. . . . After this campaign the people do not want a political baby that will be jumping from the sofa to the chandelier and from the chandelier into a neighbor's hair."

that stream to a moderate stage, which will do little if any damage anywhere on the river.

2. The generation of a greatly increased amount of hydroelectric power in the proposed new power plants, and in the existing plants on the Wisconsin and the Fox, through the release of stored water. There are presently 22 plants providing power for existing industries whose power will be increased by 91 per cent. These existing industries would absorb all of the new power generated in both existing and proposed new plants.

3. Improvement in the treatment of sewage disposal plant effluents below the Eau Claire reservoir and on the Fox, and the disposal of industrial wastes by reason of increased flow in both rivers during the normal low flow season.

4. The improvement of navigation, and of certain kinds of recreational activities, through the increase in the low flow of the Wisconsin and the Fox.

5. The construction projects will provide a large amount of immediate incidental employment, and the increased electric power developed will expand industry and increase employment in industry.

Not Doubtful

"The development comprehended by the plan is of unusual merit," the board observed, "in that none of the results of the construction projects in the way of storage of water, flood control, or electric power developed, are in any sense doubtful. There is ample evidence to justify every conclusion. None of the projects present any unusual or difficult construction problems. The predicted increase in industrial employment is in line with past experience. In fact, the greater amount of increased hydroelectric power will be developed in power plants presently operating (those in the Fox Valley, for example), and the expected employment increase will be in industries presently functioning. All of the benefits so confidently expected will be secured through the conservation of the surplus water of the Wisconsin River, a basic resource presently going to waste."

In their study of the possibilities of diverting surplus waters from the Wisconsin to the Fox River at Lake Winnebago, engineers found that the Wisconsin is about six feet higher at low stage and about 21 feet higher at high stage than the Fox.

On the lower Fox there is already an important existing industry which depends almost solely on hydroelectric power, and which is frequently suffering from an insufficient amount of it, the report said. It is the pulp and paper industry.

Water Shortage

"On the Fox the shortage of water is often very acute in summer," the board pointed out. "Not only is there a shortage of water for power, but the cities of Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and Kaukauna, and the villages of Kimberly, Little Chute, and Combined Locks suffer at times from lack of water needed for efficient treatment of their sewage. The development of additional water power along the lower Fox requires neither new dams nor new water wheels, although one more available site (along Kaukauna) will probably be developed if more firm flow of water is provided."

"The dams are there now; also the wheels, which often operate at greatly reduced capacities because of lack of sufficient water. All that is needed is more water. This can be made possible by the installation of a diversion canal to lead water which can be spared from the Wisconsin into the Fox. Such surplus water can be provided by means of the Little Eau Pleine reservoir."

It is proposed to divert 1,500 cubic feet of water per second for 120 days per year, at such times as it will be desirable, into the channel of the Fox at Portage, down to the Winnebago Pool, and through the Pool to the lower Fox and its water power plants.

The cost of the entire canal project, according to the board, would be about half a million dollars.

Reservoirs on Wolf

The study also reported that the construction of reservoirs on the upper part of the Wolf river, which now has no reservoirs, would also be feasible. A feasible site would be at North Lily, the experts said, which would store about 6,108 million cubic feet, or 140,000 acre feet of water. Another site is Leeman, where it is practicable to store an estimated 3,054 cubic feet, or 70,000 acre feet, at an estimated cost of $533,000.

These reservoirs would make available for diversion to the lower Fox an additional 700 to 800 feet per second for a period of 120 days a year, the board estimated.

The proposed 1,500 second feet of water, and the fall from the Wisconsin, and an additional 700 to 800 feet from the Upper Wolf, making a total of more than 2,000 cubic feet, "would be a godsend, both to municipalities and manufacturers," the report said, since the cities and plants on the lower Fox are troubled nearly every summer and fall by too low flow in the river, a flow so low as to interfere seriously with industry and to increase the difficulty of sewage treatment.

The low level of water flow is particularly injurious to the paper manufacturing industry in the Valley, the report said.

"All industry suffers because of a lack of electric power, and the paper manufacturing industry more than the rest. Some of the paper mills are equipped with auxiliary steam plants but not all of them are so fortunate. Those without auxiliary steam power must either shut down when the flow of water is too low, or they must purchase electric power."

Mills Close Down

At least four mills have closed down permanently because of a shortage of water power, and two

Changes of Bike Ownership Must be Reported to Police

Sergeant Carl Radtke, head of the city police traffic squad, today called attention of bicyclists to the section of the bicycle law which requires a registered owner to report when his machine has changed ownership or been dismantled.

Some owners are failing to comply with that section of the law, Radtke stated. The section reads:

"Within 10 days after any bicycle registered hereunder shall have changed ownership or been dismantled and taken out of operation, the person in whose name the bicycle has been registered shall report such information to the police department. In case of change of ownership the registration shall thereupon be changed to show the name of the new owner. In case of dismantling and taking out of operation the registration shall be canceled, and identification tag returned to the police department."

In complying with this regulation police are able to keep a more accurate check on machines, Radtke stated. Persons purchasing bikes and applying for a registration tag first must have the machine checked by police. This may be done between 4 and 6 o'clock of any Wednesday afternoon at the police station.

Applicants for Driver Licenses Must Pass Tests

Necessary Examinations Conducted at Police Station Daily

Persons seeking a driver's license must first pass an oral examination on traffic laws and a driving test. A driving school, at which tests may be taken is conducted from 1 to 3 o'clock each afternoon at the police station by Sergeant Carl Radtke, head of the police traffic squad.

The driving test consists of starting, stopping a car, parking at the curb and on an incline, shifting gears on an incline, starting car on an incline without stalling engine or allowing vehicle to roll backwards, making U-turns where permissible, making left and right turns and observing traffic rules and signs.

Any person learning to drive must first have a temporary instruction permit. The secretary of state requires the applicant for a temporary permit to have some knowledge of the laws regulating the operation of a motor vehicle, and therefore the applicant must first satisfy the officer by answering correctly at least 15 oral questions in the prescribed test. The temporary permit entitles the holder to drive upon the highways for a period of 60 days, only during daylight hours when accompanied by a licensed driver actually seated beside the beginner, and when there is no other person in the vehicle.

Fee For Permit

Such a permit cannot be issued to any person under 16 years of age. The fee for a temporary instruction permit is 50 cents while the fee for the driver's license is 25 cents. In case the applicant of a temporary permit fails to pass the required test at the end of the 60-day period, a second instruction permit must be obtained.

A written recommendation of the county judge, a driver's license may be issued to a person otherwise qualified, who is less than 16 years of age but more than 14 years of age. However, the child must demonstrate his ability to properly operate and safely control an automobile and pass an oral examination.

A driver's license issued to a child entitles him to drive only an automobile belonging to his parent or guardian during daylight hours. Such license expires when he becomes 16 years of age at which time an application for a regular driver's license must be made.

Council Rule 13 Shunted Back to Aldermanic Body

Committee Fails to Reach Decision on Proposed Buying Agent Plan

What to do about rule 13 of the city council rules and the proposed buying agent plan was still up in the air when finance committee members wound up their arguments at a meeting in city hall yesterday.

Alderman Vanderheyden, chairman of the committee, said today the committee decided to leave the whole thing up to the council. However, he said, the committee almost unanimously voiced its objection to saddling the city comptroller with city buying.

The problem will be wide open for argument when the council meets Wednesday evening because the committee will make no recommendation. Some members believe the present method of buying is as efficient as any.

Under the present set-up, materials and equipment amounting to small sums are purchased directly by the head of the department involved. Expenditures of $100 or more are authorized by committees in charge of departments and when $500 or more is to be spent for equipment or material, the committees advertise for bids.

Rule 13 has been in councilmen's hair since aldermen approved council rules in April with the exception of that rule. Alderman Keller at that time suggested the buying agent plan and since then the problem has been shunted back and forth between the committee and the council until yesterday when it was revived at the request of Mayor Goodland.

Democrats Back 3 More Candidates In Election Race

Ray L. Feuerstein to Take Third Try at Treasurer's Post

Three more Democrats entered the election field today when nomination papers were secured from them at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk.

The papers are being circulated for Ray L. Feuerstein, 1509 N. Richmond street, for county treasurer, Gerald Jolin, route 1, Hortonville, for assemblyman from the First district, and Russell Johnson, Shioc-ton, for coronator.

A representative of a group of Democrats, which is reported to be forming a county Democratic club, secured the nomination papers. The group met recently but as yet no announcement of their club has been made.

Feuerstein brings about the first opposition for Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, present county treasurer who is seeking reelection on the Republican ticket. Feuerstein has sought the office twice unsuccessfully in the past.

Johnson is seeking the office held by Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, who is seeking reelection on the Republican ticket.

Jolin is the fourth to enter the assemblyman race in the First district. Others are Mark Catlin, Jr., incumbent Republican, John E. Dehearty, Republican and Franklin C. Jesse, Republican.

Seek Cooperation

Of Organizations For Play Program

Development of a year-around recreational program in Appleton will be promoted through civic, service and fraternal organizations at a gathering to be held about Aug. 15, according to Hubert Biette, county WPA recreational director.

H. M. Moor, assistant director of WPA supervised play programs in Wisconsin, will be in Appleton to talk to representatives of the various organizations, Biette said.

Men will be picked from the various groups to work out the details and get the cooperation of the park and school boards. The parks are needed during the summer and the winter program would be conducted partly in school gymnasiums.

More ice rinks and ski slides are needed in the city to carry on an outdoor program, Biette said. If money is secured to launch the program this winter, cooperation of city officials may be requested.

55 Huge Warships are Paraded to Show Power to British Taxpayers

Portsmouth, England—(AP)—

Fifty-five giant warships went on parade today to prove to patriotic Britons that they're getting a lot of preparedness for their increased taxes.

The admiralty opened the gates on the three biggest dockyards at Portsmouth, Chatham and Plymouth for a week of large-scale displays of material and manpower.

The idea is to show how British fighting forces are expanding swiftly. It is hoped also that more recruits will join the service. It is a counterpart of War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha's campaign to advance Britain's vast re-armament program by a variety of features—like faster promotions, lower retirement ages, snapper uniforms—designed to attract more men to the colors.

Months have been spent organizing the elaborate program and instructing officers and seamen how to pilot sightseers through the floating fortresses without disclosing the navy's vital wartime secrets.

The "navy week" was expected to draw 500,000 visitors and net $100,000 in admissions for naval charities.

Many of the newest cruisers, destroyers, aircraft carriers and submarines are on show.

For one shilling (24 cents) a visitor can see everything from the traditional skylarking of "crossing the line" ceremonies held aboard ships crossing the equator to multi-barreled anti-aircraft guns capable of firing 2,400 rounds a minute.

A report today from the commandant of the 16th Naval district at Cavite, Luzon, said three destroyers would start eastward at daylight, Manila time, about 3 p. m., (C. S. T.) and that eight vessels of the submarine squadron would join the search.

The report said scouting lines in a 120-mile area were searched by army planes yesterday within 100 miles westward of the clipper's last reported position, and that navy planes had searched the east coast of Luzon and the area between Manila and the east coast.

The clipper vanished with 15 men aboard on a flight from Guam to Manila Thursday night, Pacific time.

The navy said two utility planes would resume their search at daylight in the Far Eastern waters, and that army bombers had shifted their base yesterday to permit a search at daylight today to reach as far east as the last reported position of the clipper.

Democratic Vote Would be Split In 3rd Term Race

Would Insure Election of Republican President.

Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—When Secretary Ickes says he didn't ask "papa" about the remark he made the other day about a third term for President Roosevelt, he used an expression which the chief executive uses to refer to himself. Thus, not so long ago when someone asked Mr. Roosevelt about certain legislation congress had in mind, he laughingly remarked, "They'll have to ask papa about that."

But "papa" in this case probably wouldn't care to be consulted about a third term speech at this time. Mr. Ickes knows that a mention of the third term is a bit embarrassing. At least the secretary of the interior may have read in the newspapers about an experience of another cabinet officer who mentioned third term and Mr. Roosevelt just "looked out the window" and said nothing. Also, the cabinet officer happened to be Secretary Perkins, who has known Mr. Roosevelt a good many years more than has Mr. Ickes. In fact, she was commissioner of labor in New York state when Mr. Roosevelt was governor.

The public should not, however, misunderstand these references to a third term by Mr. Ickes or by Senator Barkley or by Senator Thomas. The most "natural" thing in the world for an appointee of Mr. Roosevelt to want to see him have a third term. It means a third term for the appointee.

It will be recalled that WPA Administrator Hopkins remarked that, when WPA workers go out to lunch, they just "naturally" talk politics and that naturally 90 per cent of the Roosevelt staff are federal appointees under the Roosevelt administration talk politics; they just naturally, 90 per cent of them say they are for Roosevelt for a third term, and if the issue were a fourth term, they would be for that too.

Natural Supporters

It would be highly unnatural if in politics the beneficiary didn't favor the continuance in office of his boss. One might ask by way of proving the point, how long any federal appointee would stay in said office if he came out with a statement that he didn't believe in a third term for Mr. Roosevelt. This would be in the nature of political rebellion.

But, it will be suggested, neither Senator Barkley nor Senator Thomas is a presidential appointee, as Mr. Ickes is. That's true, yet United States Senators have virtually become federal appointees because Mr. Roosevelt picks them in the primaries, and in many states, a Democratic nomination is equivalent to an election.

It would be surprising, indeed, if Mr. Barkley were not in favor of a third term for the president. He is for Mr. Roosevelt 100 per cent and would doubtless be for him for king, dictator or "fuhrer" or whatever Mr. Roosevelt might want. In politics, this is understandable. Mr. Roosevelt has gone to Kentucky, broken in a primary contest to help Mr. Barkley win. Without that support, presumably Mr. Barkley would be defeated.

Under such circumstances, Mr. Barkley is merely doing what is expected of him in politics, which is a game of you-tickle-me-and-I-tickle-you. Many of the so-called third term pronouncements are coming from persons who are under personal or political obligation to Mr. Roosevelt. This is not unusual, however, he brushed aside as inconsequential, because these very men, the senators and the federal appointees, will head up the delegations in many states to the next Democratic national convention.

Can Get Nomination

Thus it may be said that, if Mr. Roosevelt wants renomination for a third term, he can have it without so much as nodding his head. All he need do is give the wink to his sympathetic supporters, and they'll shout and cheer and parade the convention floor for hours. Mr. Roosevelt took care at the Philadelphia convention of 1936 to make the delegates abolish the two-thirds rule, requiring a two thirds vote of the delegates to assure a Democratic presidential nomination. This means that the one-third group to block a nomination will not be powerful if any more and that, by a simple majority vote a nomination can be won. Mr. Roosevelt can certainly count on enough federal appointee support to get a majority in a Democratic national convention.

This means that any fight inside the Democratic party against a third term will have to be made on an independent Democratic ticket, with a separate national convention and a separate set of candidates. Vice President Garner has been mentioned as one who might be persuaded to head such a ticket. An independent race would split the Democratic vote and insure the election of a Republican president.

This may seem a terrible price to pay for the squelching of a third term candidate. But there are many people who have never before voted the Republican ticket who would do so because they would prefer a Republican to a violation of the precedent and custom established by George Washington and adhered to by all presidents of the United States since the very beginning of the Republic.

High School Athletes Get In Shape for Grid Season

Kaukauna—With the first football practice session on tap one month from next Thursday for Coach Paul E. Little's 1938 hopefuls, returning lettermen and those who hope to become lettermen are doing their best to get in shape. The employment situation being what it is in Kaukauna, few are lucky enough to secure a summer job, but there are none who aren't active in some way. The co-captains for the fall, Bob Niesen and Leroy Frank, are both busy. Niesen is a clerk in a hardware store, and Frank will become a member of a threshing crew. Niesen, one of the bigger boys on the squad, is a blocking back, while Frank, also far from a midget, is a veteran tackle.

Bill Alger, who played a regular end position last year in his freshman year, devoted his attention to football, and is the best hunk in the city league. Carl Giordana, a freshman backfield man, also stars on the football field and runs a popcorn machine in the evening. Others who get their exercise on football squads are Sherman Powers, Steve Andrejcski, and George Sauter. Powers, this year counted on to fill a regular guard spot, worked for a while throwing iron about in a local junk yard. Andrejcski has his eye on the tackle spot left vacant by Lee Lambie, all-conference tackle at the position last year, while Steffens will be a candidate for a backfield position.

Try Farm Work
John Veltke and Leo Rohan, guard and end, have picked farm work to get in shape with. Others who have odd jobs from time to time and are engaging in summer sports are Clayton Watson, Watson, Regenfuss, Leo Wolfe, Bob Tenneson and Clifford Fennal.

In hazing a guess at this fall's chances it must be remembered at the start that an all conference full-back, guard and tackle will be sorely missed. As if this weren't enough George Noie, who last year was a regular at a guard position, will not be out this year. Bill Peterson, who starred in three sports, George Hilgenberg and Lee Lambie are the all-conference men who will be missed.

The backfield shapes up fairly well with experienced players returning for all positions. There is Bob Niesen at quarter, Clayton Watson and Carl Giordana at half-back, and Karl Kobussen at full-back. In the line only Bill Alger at end and Leroy Frank at tackle are Kaukauna — The league leading Kaukauna Klub picked on the hapless north side C.Y.O. team in a city softball tilt last night to score a 3 to 0 victory. The Klub haven't been beaten in league play all season and the north siders haven't yet won a game.

Mike Gerhart was the winning pitcher, allowing only four hits. Ed Bloch was on the mound for the losers, with the Klub connecting for eight safeties off his delivery. Gerhart walked six and Bloch two. The two runs the winners scored in the second was the only run making of the game until they added one more in the sixth. Neisz led off the second with a single and took second as Judd was thrown out at first. Gerhart, then singled Neisz home and Finsbender walked. Eiting grounded out but Van Able came through with a hit to plate Gerhart.

Kuchelmeister Scores
Two singles and a fielder's choice were responsible for the last Klub tally. Bill Kuchelmeister and Bill Peterson both hit singles to start with, with Kuchelmeister coming home as Neisz was thrown out at first.

In only one inning, the third, could the losers put two hits together. Grogan drew a walk, Coon flied out and Bootz and Bloch got the hits, after Grogan had been thrown out stealing second. Vanhoven walked to fill the bases but Carl Giordana hit a line drive to the third baseman.

With two out in the fifth Geigel got a single, but Hatcher struck out. In the last inning Bob Grogan hit a double to begin with but his mates failed to send him home. Coon grounded to third, Bootz flied to center and Bloch was thrown out by the shortstop.

For from the time they were turned on one was bursting every few minutes. A total of eleven popped before the hour contest was finished.

Kaukauna Klubs Held to One Hit As Krafts Win, 1-0

Season's Largest Crowd Sees Victors Win in Last Inning

Kaukauna — One hit won't win many ball games, and last night's contest between the Green Bay Krafts and the Kaukauna Klubs here was no exception. John Niesz single was the only Klub safety, with the visitors putting two doubles together in the final inning to take a 1 to 0 win. The season's largest crowd, some 500, were in the stands.

After two were down in the last inning it looked as if the Klub might have a rally under way. Koehn and Peterson whiffed for an inauspicious start, but Scher grew wild and dealt passes to Branchford and Mortell, Ed Eiting then lined to second for the third out.

Daman singled for the Krafts in the third but nothing came of it. When he came up again in the fourth he made the second Kraft hit, a long triple to center, but his mates popped out.

In the fifth Branchford came through with some brilliant pitching to offset two miscues by his mates. The first two batters got on base as Koehn and Mortell erred. Branchford bore down and let to lift a weak fly to first, and set Schutte down on strikes for the final out.

Pitcher Scher led off the seventh with a two base hit to right. Fitchet grounded out and Van Boxel flied out, but Conrad smashed one over third base to score Scher with the winning run.

Repeal Rule for Closing Taverns Sunday Mornings

Council Kills Ordinance Amendment Voted 11 Days Ago

Menasha — The city council assumed the traditional feminine prerogative at a special meeting last night at the council chambers when aldermen changed their minds about closing taverns on Sunday mornings.

Eleven days ago at a regular meeting of the council, the aldermen adopted an amendment to an ordinance closing taverns from 1 o'clock Sunday morning until 11 o'clock in the morning. Last night the council repealed the amendment.

In fact, Mayor William Jensen pointed out to the council, the amendment adopted at the last regular session was unnecessary because there has been a law for the last five years on the city statutes requiring taverns to be closed on Sunday mornings.

Explains Stand
Mayor Jensen told the council that he wasn't in favor of taverns staying open on Sunday mornings, but, he said, "I am in favor of this amendment," and he explained that since taverns in the surrounding townships and Neenah remain open on Sunday mornings, those who want to drink will go out of the city to do their drinking and it will mean taking the money out of Menasha.

A petition signed by tavernkeepers in Menasha requesting the repeal of the Sunday morning closing ordinance was read. It was pointed out that the tavern keepers had been in favor of Sunday morning closing but that they had reconsidered.

The mayor, however, emphasized that "I won't stand still for having two or three men running this council. If we pass this amendment tonight, some of them might get hotly toasty and think they can run the council, but I won't stand for it."

Alderman Earl Sauter told the mayor that he didn't think the tavernkeepers were trying to run the council.

"A few of them are," are mayor retorted.

Neenah Merchants Oppose Green Bay

Bob Jerome Slated to Hurl In Valley Game Sunday

Neenah — The Neenah Merchants will be fighting out of a 3-way tie for fourth place in the Fox River Valley league Sunday afternoon when they meet the Thomas Drugs at Green Bay. The Merchants are in the fourth place corner with Green Bay and Grand Chute, each team having won two games against three defeats.

Bob Jerome probably will be given the starting assignment on the mound. He has pitched for several weeks and is the likely candidate for the job.

The Merchants took a severe wallop from the Kaukauna nine last Sunday, 9 to 1. With only two games remaining on the schedule, there isn't even a possibility of the Merchants sneaking up and claiming the title and they will have to relinquish the championship which they won last year. The Merchants' final game will be Sunday afternoon, Aug. 7, at Washington park diamond against Little Chute.

The probable starting line-up for the Merchants will include K. Handwerker, W. Handwerker, B. Gulickson, C. Fahrtenkug, R. Gartzek, B. Christofferson, C. Gamme, and, Cheslock II.

Youngsters Write, Act, Direct and Produce Play in Collipp's Garage

Neenah — Over at the corner of Fifth and Clark streets in Neenah Friday evening, in their own Neighborhood Playhouse, the Doty Performers presented "Mischievous Children," written, acted, directed and managed by members of the company.

That the Doty Performers is the newly selected name for Our Wednesday club, that the actors, authors, director and manager are youngsters between the ages of 12 and 15, that the tickets sold for one cent and the Neighborhood Playhouse was Collipp's garage, did not lessen the earnestness and importance of this production.

Our Wednesday club was started by a group of children who live on Fifth street about six weeks ago. The club meets each Wednesday at the homes of members or at Doty parl. About five weeks ago, the dramatic bug invaded the club and the presentation of the play, "Mischievous Children," last night was the result.

Profit of $6
The performers staged a parade Thursday followed by an extensive ticket sale indicated by the profit of $6 realized from the afternoon and evening performances Friday.

With the exception of assistance in setting up the stage in Collipp's garage, all the work for scenery and costumes was done by the children. T. H. Collipp and W. O. Johnson assisted with the setting up of the stage. When Mr. Collipp was queried about the next production he declared, "I hope it won't be until next year."

A. Jacqueline Collipp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Collipp, 514 Clark street, and Ruth A. Schmidt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schmidt, were co-authors of "Mischievous Children." Audrey C. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Johnson, was the director and Joan A. Miller, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. C. Miller, was the manager.

The cast included Zona Johnson who played Jannie, Jacqueline Collipp who played Donna, Alice Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Larson, who played Mrs. Smith, mother of Donna and Jannie, Ruth Schmidt, who played Frieda, the maid, and Audrey Johnson who played Judy Evergreen, a friend.

Act 1 took place in early afternoon in the living room of the Smith home. Act 2, mid-afternoon in a very tidy living room. Act 3, mid-afternoon, room very untidy.

Union Picketing Two Ice Dealers

Local Claims Firms Have Refused Contract for 5-Cent Wage Boost

Menasha—Truck drivers union, Twin City local 563, was picketing two ice dealers in Neenah and Menasha this morning, claiming the dealers have refused to sign a new contract which would boost wages of their truck drivers five cents an hour.

The A. E. Schultz Fuel and Ice company, route 1, Neenah, and the Pankratz Fuel and Ice company, 124 Kaukauna street, Menasha, are the firms being picketed.

The drivers, however, are not striking, and R. L. Pankratz and Mr. Schultz reported that they were delivering ice as usual this morning.

The proposed new contract would result in an increase in the wages of the truck drivers of five cents an hour. The drivers are getting 45 cents an hour. The old contract expired July 19.

Mr. Pankratz this morning charged that the union was discriminating among the dealers. He said that it wasn't the 5-cent an hour increase in wages which concerned him so much, but he said the union was allowing other dealers to pay their drivers less wages when the drivers are dissatisfied. "My men aren't dissatisfied," he said. He said one dealer is paying $27 for 75 hours work, which he claimed was considerably less than he is paying.

STATE MAKES PROGRESS IN PINE PROTECTION CAMPAIGN

Madison—Times change. Where once lumberjacks during Wisconsin's romantic logging era systematically cut down and destroyed trees, 1938 lumber crews in Wisconsin are protecting them.

In the above picture a group of transient workers from a welfare camp at Lake Imogene, Vilas county, are picking currant and gooseberry bushes—hosts to blister rust—in a control project supervised by the state department of agriculture and markets. In the second picture, below, Menominee Indians are shown at work in their extensive and valuable white pine forests eradicating the plants which carry the dangerous rust. About 40 Indians employed by the Indian service are now at work on this project on the Menominee reservation near Shawano under the technical supervision of the state department of agriculture.

The state is making rapid progress in its white pine protection campaign, the department reports, having already protected more than 188,000 acres of the 327,000 acres of well-stocked and commercially important white pine trees from the disease. More than 20 CCC camps working under the agriculture department and the federal department of agriculture are cooperating.

The rust, accidentally introduced to the United States in 1906 from Europe, was found in Wisconsin in 1916. First discovered in Polk county, it has since spread to almost 60 counties, according to E. L. Chambers, state entomologist.

Twenty-five members of the Rebekah lodge attended the annual picnic meeting at Menasha park Friday but rain forced the group into the Memorial building for the supper. No social hour was held following the picnic. General plans for attendance at the pilgrimage to the home at Green Bay Aug. 25 were discussed.

Twin City Catholic Daughters of America, Court Allouez, will hold the annual picnic of the court Monday at Menasha park. A covered dish supper is planned. Mrs. Mabel Schierl is chairman of the committee in charge.

Four members of the Junior Court of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, St. Patrick's court, will return today from a week's outing at the Catholic Girls Camp at Loon lake. Miss Evelyn Garfield and Miss Patricia Doll were awarded the week's outing by the adult court. Other girls in the group were Sally Ann Bart and Betty Jean Doll.

Waterworks to Be Topic at Next Session of Board

Manawa Trustees Make Final Decision Next Thursday Evening

Manawa—Some action on the matter of a system of waterworks for the village of Manawa will be taken at the regular meeting of the board of trustees next Thursday evening, it has been indicated by A. Sturm, village president. The subject has been up for discussion at recent meetings of the village council.

Several engineers from different sections of the state have attended these meetings, and have made offers to complete a preliminary survey of the village, the first step necessary towards the construction of either or both a waterworks and a sewerage system.

It is probable, according to Mr. Sturm, that a decision regarding the engineer appointed to make this survey will be made at next Thursday's meeting of the board of trustees composed of John Kostrzak, Frank Smith, Dr. R. K. Irvine, Erwin Esche, F. J. Gehrke and F. R. Meiklejohn.

Federal Grant Seen

Should waterworks be installed in the village, it would probably be necessary to secure a grant of federal funds from either the PWA to pay a big percentage of the costs. Many other towns and villages throughout Wisconsin have already secured these grants, and villages having a population as small as 300 people are installing such improvements as are contemplated here.

It has been the opinion of many local residents that Manawa should secure a share of these government funds as long as the money is available, so that jobs may be provided for local workers over a period of from two to three years, and to make possible an improvement that has long been needed here. It is understood that the building of several new residences is being considered at the present time awaiting some decision on the waterworks proposal.

4 Clintonville Scouts Honored

Will be Guests at Wisconsin State Fair From Aug. 20 to 28

Clintonville—According to an announcement made by Walter Dixon, executive of the Valley Boy Scout Council, four Boy Scouts from this city will be guests at the Wisconsin state fair from Aug. 20 to 28. Only eight scouts are being chosen from the entire Valley Council. Four are being selected from here in recognition of the splendid showing the local troops made at the camporee at Neenah in June, where three of the ten honor troops were from Clintonville. As there are four troops in this city, Mr. Dixon has asked that one member be selected from each one. These scouts will be a part of a contingent of 150 Boy Scouts from the 16 councils in Wisconsin. All expenses during their stay at the fair will be defrayed by the state fair association.

The selection of the four Clintonville scouts will be made during the next few weeks, according to Commissioner John Buehrens of this city. The requirements are that each one named must be a first class scout, must be 14 years old, and must have had at least two weeks of camping. The four Clintonville troops are: No. 21, sponsored by the Methodist church; Raymond Smith, scoutmaster; No. 22, sponsored by a group of citizens; Lloyd Pinkowsky, scoutmaster; No. 24, the American Legion troop; Lester Osterloth, scoutmaster; No. 30, sponsored by St. Martin Lutheran church, Arlyn Markquardt, scoutmaster. The latter troop won highest camping honors at the Camporee.

Outdoor Activities Help Provide Entertainment for Guests in Appleton

Picnics, parties and sports took on an added interest this week for several groups of young people in Appleton and the vicinity because they centered around out-of-town guests, three of whom are shown here with their hostesses. On their way to a tennis game, Miss Dorothy Ward, 840 E. Atlantic street, left, and her house guest, Mrs. Newell Dodge, Madison, right, provided the attractive picture at the upper right. The two young women were Sigma Kappa sorority sisters at the University of Wisconsin. In the center are Miss Bonnie Kate Owens, Gary, Ind., left, and Miss Jean Matteson, 1116 N. Lemnaw street, right, ready for a bicycle jaunt, one of the many pastimes that kept the visitor busy during her stay here. Both girls were sophomores last year at the University of Wisconsin, where Joan is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority and her guest, a member of Gamma Phi Beta.

Improvements on the camp ground which are scheduled for completion before the opening of the encampment include the construction and grading of a new street extending around the north side of the present circle of buildings, and the installation of an electric pump and drinking fountain. An underground concrete cistern for fire protection purposes was completed at the camp last fall. Ten new building lots for cottage sites have laid out along the new street.

The district includes an eastern Wisconsin area lying approximately between the cities of Port Washington and Hartford in the south, Marquette in the southwest and Marinette in the north. Forty-nine congregations will be officially represented by their pastors and lay delegations.

Portiuncula Feast to be Celebrated

THE feast of Portiuncula will be celebrated Monday and Tuesday at St. Joseph's church. The feast is celebrated only in churches presided over by members of the Franciscan order or churches having been granted the privilege of celebrating it.

All Catholics who visit the church and recite prescribed prayers between Monday noon and Tuesday evening may gain a plenary indulgence each time the requirements are fulfilled. Confession and communion also are conditions for gaining the indulgence.

Named after a shrine in Assisi where St. Francis lived to pray and meditate, the feast of Portiuncula commemorates the granting of the first plenary indulgence by Pope Honorius III at the petition of St. Francis. Portiuncula is the Italian word for "little portion." The first privilege was granted to all who would visit the chapel at Portiuncula three times a year. Now it is granted daily at the shrine in Assisi, Italy, but only once a year in this country, Aug. 1 and 2. The Rev. Cyprilian, Alber, O. M. Cap., pastor of St. Joseph's church, visited the shrine of Portiuncula in Assisi on his trip to Europe from which he returned last evening.

A NEW group joined the ranks of Appleton's young neighborhood dramatists Friday afternoon when a company of Third ward youngsters presented, in costume, "Mother Goose's School." The setting was the Michael Flanigan's garage at 321 S. Badger avenue, which had been decorated by the children with draperies and paper chains and school accessories to give the proper atmosphere.

Richard Verhoeven was cast as the Ten O'Clock Scholar; Mary Flanigan, as the teacher; Loretta Garvey, as Little Bo-Peep; Lola Mae Garvey, as Little Miss Muffet; Mary Catherine Garvey, as Mary of "Mary Had a Little Lamb"; Jean Flanigan as George Porgie; Dorothy Flanigan as Dr. Foster; and Ione Johnson as the dance.

In addition to the play, the program also included tap dances and songs by two 4-year-olds, Colleen Newcomb and Kathleen Flanigan. Refreshments were provided by some of the mothers. The performance proved so successful that the youthful actors decided to produce another play before the summer is over.

Trick Costumes are Feature of Nodaway Club Shipwreck Party

Candy life-savers attached to pieces of cord were "tickets" of entrance into the Nodaway Yacht club Shipwreck party Friday evening in the clubhouse. Guests were to come with the first thing they would grab if they were shipwrecked or in the costume they would be wearing. Rudy Lotz and Buddy Sensenbrenner were the cause for most merriment at the party when they came sans trousers. Lotz wore bathing trunks and an oilskin jacket while Buddy was decked out in a full dress shirt. Jerome Grode wore oilskins and Stan Larson, John Art, Donald Olson and James Hooper were well prepared with life preservers. Slacks dominated the majority of feminine garb with some of the girls coming with one ear-ring, part of their hair in curlers and other amusing features. The orchestra for the party included Tony Jensen, Gilbert Neff, Elmer Schultheis, Art Homblette and Fred Nixon. Mr. Homblette led the group in a song fest during a hull in the dancing program. About 30 couples attended the party.

For three rounds, these lads from Troop 24, Clintonville, sparred. The fight ended in a draw.

One Kayo

Only knockout of the evening was produced by "Ferocious" Smiley, 75 pounds, over "Sissy" Habeck, 130 pounds, in the weekly exhibition match. Habeck, who weighed twice as much as his opponent, had to lean way over so that "Ferocious" could reach him with a fist. With only a few seconds to go in the last round, Smiley landed the decisive blow which sprawled big Habeck on the mat. Both are from Troop 24, Clintonville.

For top place honors in the 130-pound heavyweight class the most thrilling fight of the night was presented by Jim De Young, Troop 13, Appleton, and Norman Graeger of the Marion Troop 26. It was a draw.

At intermission, two patrol groups presented stunts. The theme of the initial performance was "Napoleon's Retreat from Waterloo." Happiest Marriages are Run on Fifty-Fifty Basis

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Miss Dix—My girl and I have one main topic of dispute. It is this: She says that marriage is a fifty-fifty proposition, that there should be no boss and that all domestic problems should be settled by mutual agreement and not by either one party. I say that there must be one person who is boss and that marriage is like business in that it must have some one individual who is at the head. What do you say?
BOB.

Answer:
I think your girl is right; that the only happy marriages are those that are run on a fifty-fifty proposition, where a husband and wife have equal authority. A henpecked husband and a doormat wife are nobody's idea of matrimonial felicity.

Your comparison of marriage to business is good, but you don't carry it to the logical conclusion. When two men form a partnership, put into the business the same amount of capital and do the same amount of work neither one will submit to being bossed by the other. Each has his own particular department in which he is supreme and they meet on a common plane for discussion of matters of finance, policy and the general good of the business. And they expect to share equally in the profits of the concern.

That is the way it should be in marriage. When a man and woman marry they form a partnership on the same basis. They have equal authority in everything they have and are, the woman no less than the man. Each should rule in his or her own sphere. The wife should not interfere in her husband's business. The husband should not poke his nose into the dice-box, pry into the garbage can, audit the wife's account with the butcher and the baker and the candlestick maker, or tell her whether she should have pink curtains or blue in the bedroom. These are her affairs, just as running his business in his affair, but when it comes to deciding on the domestic policy, about the budget and the rearing of the children, et cetera, then they should talk it over together and agree about what is wisest to be done.

If a girl hasn't enough sense and judgment to cope with her end of the partnership; if she doesn't know enough to be able to manage a house and spend money intelligently, or what to wear and how much lipstick to use; if she is so stupid she needs a boss to tell her what to do and how to do it, then she isn't fit to marry.

This question of who shall be the boss wrecks more marriages than any one thing and brings about more family quarrels. In many households there is one long battle from the altar to the grave between the husband and wife about which each shall rule the other. Sometimes the husband wins out and we have a cantankerous, nagging wife who takes out her venom over her defeat by thwarting her husband in little ways and being bitter and disgruntled and complaining. Sometimes the wife gets the upper hand and then we have a meek, spiritless man, whose ambition has been crushed out of him, or else one who takes to drink, or seeks solace with some other woman who will flatter him and restore his lost self-respect.

But always it is an unhappy home unless the husband and wife give and take equally, unless each accords the other equal rights, unless each gives the other liberty in his or her sphere, unless they share fifty-fifty in the profits and emoluments of marriage, as they share in its sacrifices and labors.

And no man need be afraid he won't be boss in his own household and that his wife won't look up to him and defer to him if he is worthy of it. If he shows the qualities of leadership and if his judgment is sound and just, his wife will be glad to be guided by him. For

Failed to Arrive at Right Bid

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The unkindest thing that fate can do to some players is to give them an excellent suit. The fact that they can see there is at most one loser in their own suit often blinds them to the enormous advantage of playing the contract in partner's announced suit. For example, South's bidding in the hand shown below, although very bad, was in no sense exceptional. It is my sad conviction that thousands of players would select the same faulty contract.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
NORTH
♠ 9 7 4 3 2
♦ 8 6
♣ K 9 7 5
WEST
♠ J 10 5
♥ K 6 4
♦ 7 2
♣ A 10 8 4 3
EAST
♥ 10 9 5 4 3
♦ A Q J 2
♣ A Q J 2

Even though West made the very opening lead (a low diamond) that was most favorable to declarer, there was no play for the contract.

South, of course, had to concede the missing heart king and, long before a club discard could be made on dummy's spade suit, West had shifted to a club, and East had collected the setting trick.

Perhaps South was led astray by North's five heart bid, but if so, I strongly recommend that he (and others of his kind) devote more study to the four-five no trump convention! The five heart bid by North was in no sense a raise, or even an acceptance of hearts as trump. It was a forced response to the four no trump conventional bid, i. e., North having no ace and no additional values had no choice but to sign off in the lowest bid suit. My guess is, however, that South was not misled by the five heart bid but that he deliberately selected hearts as trump because of the excellence of his own suit. The fact that North had bid and rebid spades obviously had little effect on South. As a matter of fact, it is a close point whether South should have supported spades immediately instead of rebidding the heart suit.

The future bidding would have gone a little smoother if he had done so, but the result would have been the same if, over North's five hearts, South had made the correct final decision of bidding six spades. Surely, as between a suit that had been bid twice by North and of which South had the A-K-K, and another suit of which obviously might have a loser, there was no reason for indecision.

Normally good play by North at a six spade contract would have been successful. South's heart suit could have been quickly established by two ruffs.

WEDDING INVITATIONS

A General Invitation Must Always Include Mr. and Mrs.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just received a wedding invitation to both ceremony and reception from strangers who are the parents of my bride of an ex-beau of mine. My own husband has not been included. Do you think it was proper for them to omit my husband, and don't you think I had better stay away under the circumstances? I am very much disappointed, of course, because I would like to go and moreover I am afraid that if I stay away the bride will think I have not forgotten the fact that the groom was engaged to me at one time.

Answer: Since it is always proper that a husband go with his wife, and that a wife go with her husband, in any general entertainment, it is not possible that they could have intended to invite you without your husband. Plainly, leaving his name out in this instance was in some way an oversight. On the other hand, if you alone were invited to a dinner or to an afternoon bridge party, you could not assume that your husband had been invited. But to a wedding, or to any general reception, it is entirely proper that you accept the invitation for Mr. and Mrs. In fact, it would be very improper for you to do otherwise.

The Card Enclosed with a Shower Gift

Dear Mrs. Post: Last week the friends of some dear neighbors gave the daughter a miscellaneous shower to which I was invited. I could not go but I sent a very nice present and enclosed a card from my husband and me. A friend now tells me that it was very unsuitable to include my husband's name. But if I were sending another present as a wedding present, my husband's name would be included with mine, and this present will be the only one we can send.

Answer: While the point made by your friend is perhaps an accurate one, it is not, so it seems to me, a very serious one. To begin with, the shower present is usually taken—not sent—and is therefore given by one person alone. It is usually also a trifle and not a wedding present. But since you sent your husband's and included your husband's

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Leave all your make-up at home other than your lipstick when you go down to the sea!

This season's beach beauty is Miss Natural Looking.

But in your gay beach bag you must carry a jar of protective cream, sun lotion either for or against a tan, a good eye oil, and a pair of sun goggles. Of course your lipstick goes along and for super cargo you might carry a tube of eyelash grower!

From this you may see our current beauty's aim is to make most of the hours spent under the sun. She protects her face skin with a cream or liquid which is quickly absorbed. She gently massages around her eyes with a little shiny oil (which makes them attractive) before donning her goggles.

Unless her body skin has been oiled by now she dutifully anoints it with the sun lotion to keep it of even tone whether dark or light. A fresh, natural, protected face peeps out from beneath her head covering.

Two Artifices Permitted
Just so we won't let ourselves go completely, and get dowdy looking, we are permitted, by fashion's dictates, to rouge our lips with one of the new berry shades or softer rose shades. And for impressive swank, our nails may be lacquered in waxy white or in colorless polish with tip trimmings of a brighter hue.

It is up to you to choose a swim suit which brings out your better curves and softens those less appealing. Don't think for a minute you should wear a skin tight stretchy suit because they are fashionable if your weight is the slightest bit over normal. Flesh must go somewhere and if an elastic suit slims your oversized hips, either your waist will be thickened or your thighs bulge. Rather wear a dressmaker type of suit in cheerful pattern cut with becoming lines.

After your sun dozing and sea bathing when you are primping for a party you may experiment to your heart's delight with summer make-up. Try a bisque-tan complete with foundation cream, powder and eyeshadow in blending shades, and top it off with a light dab of natural color rouge and lipstick in striking color contrast. Or—be fashionably different—and, don't wear any lip color at all! Concentrate on eye make-up and let them do the alluring!

Uncle Ray's Corner

The Life of John Muir

VI—MUIR'S GLACIER

Yesterday we spoke of Hall Young's slide to the edge of a precipice during a mountain-climbing trip with John Muir in British Columbia. His legs were over the edge of the steep cliff, and he was in danger of falling several hundred feet to his death. Muir shouted to him, and told him to catch hold of a rock at his right side. "I can't do it," yelled Young. "My arms are out."

"Keep cool!" was Muir's reply. "I'm going to get you out of this! I'll have to cross by the rift high up, and come down to you on the other side."

Ten minutes later, Muir reached the top. Getting as good a foothold as he could on a narrow ledge, he reached down and lifted his friend from the edge of the precipice.

To keep from falling with his load, Muir had to grasp a jutting rock with his right hand, but he caught the collar of the injured man between his teeth, and gripped him with his left arm as firmly as he could.

In a few minutes, they reached a wide ledge. Then Muir quickly set to work on Young's dislocated arm, and was able to get the right one back into its socket. The other he placed in a sling made with a handkerchief and a pair of suspenders.

The sun had set and darkness had come. Yet the two men made their way down the mountainside. They reached the steamer, where the captain managed to put Young's left arm back into place.

Later that same summer, Muir studied the coast of Alaska. During the journey he caught sight of a large and beautiful glacier. Exploring it alone, he walked over its surface from dawn until darkness. Later he described it in a book, and in his honor it is known as Muir's glacier.

At that time, Muir's glacier was about a mile and a half wide, and its face was a wall of ice from 400 to 700 feet high. Great chunks were breaking off from time to time—chunks which became icebergs in the North Pacific.

Returning from Alaska to California, Muir was married to the daughter of a Polish doctor who had come to California in the gold rush of 1849. The doctor had not "struck it rich," but he had started a fruit ranch and was growing oranges, lemons and apricots.

Muir spent most of the rest of his life in California, but made another journey to Alaska to see his glacier. He also traveled around the world, and spent a great deal of time in Europe. He died in 1914 at the age of 76. He left the world books which have given many persons a greater enjoyment of Nature.

Marriage Witnesses Sometimes Strangers
Dear Mrs. Post: If marriage witnesses are strangers and are asked to come in to provide the legal requirements, what, if anything, should they be paid? And what, if one of them happens to be the minister's wife?

Answer: The clergyman alone receives a fee. The witnesses are not supposed to accept anything. I have never heard that is of any one ever giving the witnesses anything. (Copyright, 1938.)

Unselfish Service Means More Than Eloquent Talk

BY ANGELO PATRI

Talking is about the easiest thing one can do. It gives one a righteous feeling to talk long and wisely about the problems of life so that one is likely to think that something has been done to solve them after making a good speech about them. Does a disaster visit a community? Somebody makes a long speech about the troubles to which man is heir, and feels relieved. Does distress overwhelm a family? One member of it, at least, will tell how it came about, who was to blame, what should be done about it, and feel he has made a real contribution. The talker deceives even himself.

Once I attended a meeting called for the relief of some needy children and their mothers. A man rose and made an eloquent address, telling all about the suffering children, and all about what ought to be done for their relief. After the meeting some brave spirit asked him what part he was going to take in the relief work. "Oh, ah, you see, I'm lending my name. And my time. I'll make as many addresses as you need."

"Talk, you see, is cheap, but service is rare and its cost is high. Not in money, but in the qualities of life that are more precious than money. Love, for instance. Unselfish service merits and receives pure vegetables ready. Do something about it."

Staying an hour with an invalid and relieving the family nurse; raising the money to pay for a doctor for an ailing child, or to send a weary worker on a vacation, instead of sighing and saying, "It's too bad, Charlie can't have that vacation," or, "Michael ought to have a vacation, but how can he go when he has such a big family?" Get busy and make the thing possible; stop deceiving yourself into thinking you are doing something, real when all you are doing is wasting breath.

Teach children to put their shoulders to the task at hand instead of fluttering their tongues in futile speech.

Mother is tired. Well, relieve her. Take her place for an hour or so, or a day or two. Let her rest while you prepare the meal; let her take a nap while you take care of the baby; send her to call on her neglected friend while you get the

BOOK REVIEW

Fannie Kemble's Biography is Fascinating Story of Her Times

By Jean Wiley Thickens

"FANNY KEMBLE" by Margaret Armstrong.

"The death I should prefer would be to break my neck off the back of a good horse at a full gallop on a fine day."

No words of Fannie Kemble could be more fitting of that wild, free spirit which captured the imagination of thousands and charmed huge audiences on both sides of the Atlantic, for Fannie Kemble was undoubtedly the most gifted actress of the nineteenth century. The author in her biography of "Fannie Kemble" seems to have caught to a remarkable degree the personality of this unique woman and her story reads like the most enthralling fiction. An eagle, a sprite, a butterfly, all these could be applied to Fannie Kemble as she darts, swoops, and at times drags her wings, across the pages of Miss Armstrong's book.

Fanny was the daughter of Charles Kemble, sixth of a line of famous English actors, and of Marie Theresa de Camp, a passionate lover during the reign of George IV of England as "the little French fairy," and a great favorite on the French and English stage at that period. Thus Fanny came honestly by her accomplishments and her great charm. Her career almost parallels that of Queen Victoria in point of time but in no other way. Victoria was the synonym for dull respectability; Fannie Kemble, on the other hand was one of the first great feminists of England and America, for her time was about equally divided between the two countries. During her married life to Pierce Butler, an American, she was continually shocking her narrow-minded, ultra-conservative Philadelphia in-laws by her love for violent exercise, her passion for mountain climbing and her utter disregard for the opinions of those about her whom she found boring or unworthy of her friendship.

Fanny's active life spanned the years between 1832 and 1893 (for she was active in various ways until the day of her death) and during these sixty years the world of England and America changed to such an extent as to be almost unbelievable, to one who had not witnessed these metamorphoses. Customs, habits, fashions and tastes underwent a complete reversal. In her youth in England she was closely associated with such famous personages as Sir Walter Scott, Thomas Lawrence—the portrait painter who painted Fanny many times—Thackeray, Tennyson, Robert Browning, Charles Greville, and scores of others. In American circles when at the height of her dramatic career, her intimates included such magic names as Dolly Madison, Washington Irving (who had often been a guest in her father's home in England) Daniel Webster, Mr. Emerson, Chief Justice Marshall, and old Andrew Jackson himself—all names to conjure with. For her staunch abolitionist leanings her husband and his family whose wealth was derived from slave labor on a Georgia plantation—scorned and reviled her and a divorce, almost unheard of in those days, was the outcome. But Fannie Kemble's passionate love for truth and justice did not permit her to compromise with her conscience. The publication of her "Georgia Journal," a record of her personal observations of the treatment accorded slaves on her husband's and neighboring plantations, caused a storm of protest from Southern admirers but was instrumental in preventing England from becoming an ally of the South during the Civil War. For this heresy Pierce Butler refused to allow her to see or correspond with her two little daughters, an act of cruelty which almost broke her heart. In those unenlightened days of the mid-nineteenth century a mother's rights over the lives of her minor children were always secondary to those of the father, regardless of the character of that father. Too late Fannie learned that she had married a weak, dandified, ignorant, unfaithful, and bad tempered man, utterly unsuited to her generous, volatile nature.

In an effort to forget her domestic troubles and incidentally to support herself, she returned to the stage in England, a sad and disillusioned woman of thirty-seven. However, the latter half of her life, the not so brilliant as her youthful years, held much of quiet happiness and satisfaction. After Butler's death, Fannie's daughters joined their mother, and her cup of joy was almost full.

The book is a kaleidoscope of changing figures and colors—a panorama of the nineteenth century. The reader is carried swiftly along on a swirling flood of exciting events, historical, political and economic. Miss Armstrong is obviously a past master in the difficult art of "holding a mirror up to nature."

My Neighbor Says—

There are several annuals which if planted now in boxes of earth and transplanted into pots when well started will make good window garden plants for early winter. Among the plants which give good results in a sunny window are these: Annual chrysanthemums, Nemesis strumosa, scabiosa or mourning bride, snapdragon, arctotis, dimorphotheca, schizanthus or butterfly flower, and the trailing thunbergia. Any good garden soil will do for these plants, which should be shifted from very small pots to larger pots before they start to bloom. The main difficulty in growing such plants comes from attacks of insect pests, especially lice. The lice can be kept away to an extent, however, by keeping the soil in the pots covered with chopped tobacco stems.

If two glasses become wedged together, stand in warm water and pour cold water into the inside glass. By this method they are easily separated.

Left-over meat, even if there is very little, will make a tasty supper or luncheon dish, if it is added to scrambled eggs, omelets or rice.

Orange flavoring is delicious for pudding and custards. Save the peel of oranges, preferably of tangerines, dry it in the oven and then store in tins for use. (Copyright, 1938)

Examiner Finds Ford Violated Wagner Law

Washington.—(U)—A labor board trial examiner ruled Friday that the Ford Motor company had violated the Wagner labor act by "spying" and discrimination at its Buffalo, N. Y., assembly plant.

The examiner, Francis M. Shea, recommended that the company rehire 50 CIO unionists and cease "interfering" with union activities.

Shea, listing eight methods of alleged violation of the law, said the company's service men had spied on union meetings and on men at work. At the same time, he added, it "disseminated propaganda" to discriminate against unionists.

Love on the Range

The Story So Far Under the name of Abe Street, quick-fire Ankrom takes a job on the troubled Rafter T ranch to help lovely Lee Trone. Colonel Struthers and his daughter Betty come to visit, and Ankrom recognizes Struthers as a gambler, Kelton Dren. Then Dren is mysteriously shot. Both Rafterford, the burly sheriff, and Claydell, a neighboring rancher, had also recognized the imposture. Trouble breaks in a new quarter when rustlers wipe the range clean.

Chapter 16 A Leak "Them rustlin' polecats was on us boys before we could get from our blankets," the puncher continued breathlessly. "Blowed Charlie's lamp plumb out! Slammed Ed outen the saddle's quick he never knowed what hit 'im! I riz up empty'n my iron fast as I could work the trigger; grabbed Ed's horse as it come larupin' by. I been slickin' leather ever since. Figgured you'd wanta know quick."

"Where'd they head for?" bel-lowed Rafterford. "I didn't do no lingersin' on that lan'scape! 'F you wanta know, I'd suggest you fork a bronc right out there, mister."

"Where'n hell was Hackett?" Trone demanded, spurred by a sudden surge of anger at his loss. "Couldn't say, boss. Haven't seen 'im for a week."

Ankrom stepped forward from the shadows. "Didn't he go to you southeast line camp last night?" he asked. And at Trone's dispirited nod: "He hasn't showed here since?"

Trone shook his head and again his hand brushed across his eyes as though to shut away unpleasant pictures. "It's been this way right along," he muttered slowly. "Hackett's always somewhere else when these rustlers strike. I can't understand this thing."

"Must be a leak someplace," Ankrom suggested thoughtfully. "Leak!" Trone thundered. "Leak! Hell--they know every move we make!" He glared toward Rafterford. "If the law was worth a damn--"

"That's enough of that brand of lingo," Rafterford growled. "I ain't no mind-reader!" He turned to the puncher. "You say two of the Rafter T men were downed?"

"I ain't sure whether they cashed in Ed's chips or not. But they sure blowed Charlie's lamp out! An' last I seen of Ed he was sprawled out on his face an' not doin' any movin'!" He looked toward Trone. "We reem' to stand round here gas-sin' all night?"

"I guess the sheriff here will take charge," Trone answered. "No, now I won't," Rafterford growled. "Right now I got all I can tend to runnin' down this murder business. You'll have to take care of it yourself, Trone."

"Take The Boys" To Ankrom it seemed that Trone was about to make some violent re-tort. He straightened stiffly, but then shrugged. "Streeter, take the boys an' see what you can do," he said and went back inside the house.

Ankrom went toward the corral "Rattle your hocks, fellas an' let's get movin'!"

"An' be sure you come back when you're finished," the sheriff shouted.

Ankrom strode inside the corral building a loop in his rop. The horses broke and circled, piling up against the pole enclosure's lar-ther side. His buckskin saw 'em coming and dropped its head. Ankrom waited. When the buckskin's neck came up again the rope snaked out and dropped its loop for a ringer. Ankrom led the horse outside and swiftly saddled it. Leaving it then with trailing reins he went to the bunkhouse and left the corral to the punchers.

When he emerged several moments later a belt and holster sagged about his waist. His spurs rang thinly as he crossed to where three mounted men awaited him beside the saddled buckskin. He climbed aboard and drew his glance against the man from the northwest line camp.

"Lead off," he said, "and don't wear these horses out. We may need 'em later on."

When Ankrom returned to the Rafter T's home ranch it was almost noon. After caring for his buckskin, Ankrom strode stiffly to the ranchhouse and, without knock-ing, quietly entered Trone's office. The old man looked up with a scowl.

"Back, eh? What did you find out?"

"You got any idea where these rustled cattle been goin'?" Ankrom countered.

Trone's scowl grew blackly deep-er. "No," he said, and crossed his arms.

"Do you know how they've been got away with?"

"No, I don't know that, either."

"Don't you ever take a peaser around your range?"

"Polecat On The Payroll" Trone regarded Ankrom coldly, hard-held temper plainly visible behind the pupils of his faded eyes. "I gave you a chore this morning--but I don't recollect givin' you any authority to--"

Ankrom checked him. "This isn't the time for that," he drawled. Thrusting his hands deep down in his trouser pockets he took a turn or two about the room. When he next faced Trone his eyes were hard and cold. "You've got a polecat on your payroll. Mebbe two or three."

Trone stared back in silence.

Ankrom said. "This polecat I mentioned is passin' the word to these rustlers. He tells 'em when it's safe to make a haul an' like-wise where to make it."

"Hasn't Hackett been reportin' that you're losin' cattle?" At Trone's nod Ankrom shrugged. "I'd say it was evident then. As your range boss, it is up to Hackett to stop this stealin'. Evidently he can't stop it. There's only one reason, as I see it, why Hackett can't stop your losses with the men at his disposal. Someone on your payroll is upping the rustlers off, tellin' 'em where Hackett and the men will be at a time when a bunch of your rustlers are loosely guarded someplace else."

"You ought to be a detective," Ankrom grinned. "Then you've known that much right along, eh? How come you don't know then how your cattle are bein' stolen?"

"They're bein' run off into the badlands, into the lava beds or across that big salt flat. Trail pe-ters out in them places an' we can't--"

"Do you know why the trail pe-ters out?" Ankrom interrupted.

"Sure. It peters out in the bad-lands because steers don't leave much trail on lava. An' who could trail steers across a loose salt flat with the kind of winds we have in Texas?" Trone growled. "You got any more bright remarks?"

"Yeah--one or two. You, or your foreman, has jumped to the wrong conclusion."

"What do you mean?"

"Those rustled cattle of yours have never been driven more than a hundred yards into the badlands or out onto that salt flat."

"You're crazy!" Trone snapped testily.

"Your cattle," Ankrom went on unperturbably, "have been taken off this range in trucks."

ever, even for a Saturday session. Transfers were valued at 350,000 shares. Profit-selling near the close chipped down best marks.

Many traders apparently felt the early pressure of dog-day apathy and got a head start on their week-end holiday. The result was that boardrooms were sparsely occupied and the ticker tape loafed frequently.

While leading stocks received a fair share of speculative attention, low-priced issues were again the liveliest, most adding small fractions to recent improvement.

Business news, on the whole, was still the main bolstering share influence.

Stocks on the advancing side included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, U. S. Rubber, Commercial Solvents, Westinghouse, National Cash Register and Richfield Oil.

Unchanged to down moderately were Consolidated Edison, N. Y. Central, Philip Morris, Boeing, Oliver Farm and Standard Oil of N.

Bonds and commodities were sluggish and narrow.

Dairy Foods Campaign To Be Begun At Once

Minneapolis (U. S. D. A.)—With a fund of at least $400,000 to be set up as first move, a nation-wide campaign to promote the popularity and use of dairy foods will get under way at once.

Plans for this program were shaped at a meeting of representatives of dairy industries in Minneapolis, Iowa and Wisconsin here yesterday.

A national meeting of leaders in processing of dairy products, in all major dairy states, will be held at Chicago in late September, the nine members of the tri-state committee decided. Detailed plans will be worked out for raising the initial fund of $400,000.

Manufacturers of butter, cheese, ice cream, milk powder, dry milk and other milk products, as well as distributors of fluid milk, will be asked to contribute to the campaign fund at the rate of 50 cents per each 1,000 pounds of butterfat marketed annually. This will finance a permanent program of education and advertising.

Referendum Ordered In 15 Potato States

Washington (U. S. D. A.)—The agricultural adjustment administration ordered today a referendum in 15 late potato producing states to determine whether producers favor a program designed to keep cut potatoes off the market.

States in which the referendum will be held between August 19 and 24 are Maine, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Oregon, Washington and California.

The proposed four-year marketing program would set up a joint federal-state system of inspection of potatoes for interstate shipment. The purpose, officials explained, is to keep low grade potatoes from flooding markets and depressing prices.

Charges 'Perjury Whole Keynote' in London Trial

London, Ky.—(U. S. D. A.)—Assistant Attorney General Brien McMahon delivered the government's case to the Harlan anti-labor conspiracy trial today with the assertion the "whole keynote" of the defense was "the swearing and perjury."

Two women had testified they were offered $25 and expenses to tell perjured stories here. Another witness, who testified for the defense, said later he had been paid $50 for false testimony.

McMahon's hour-long summation brought arguments to a close and left only the court's charge before the jury's consideration of evidence against the 39 individuals and 17 companies charged with conspiring to violate the Wagner labor relations act.

Earlier, the British government's disclosure that the British destroyer Hero stood by without retaliating when a Spanish insurgent plane bombed and sank the steamer Delwyn Wednesday in the British-occupied port of Gandia, Spain, aroused bitter Laborite comment.

The highest peak in the Adiron-dacks is Mt. Marcy, 5,344 ft. high.

CHICAGO CHEERS FOR HUGHES

Chicago went wild as it gave Howard Hughes (shown with arm in air, indicated by arrow) belated congratulations for his around-the-world flight. Here the flyer rides amid a paper shower up LaSalle street. He spent a day in the mid-west metropolis en route by plane to Houston, Texas, and Los Angeles.

Wheat Dealings Are Limited to Narrow Groove

Trading Kept to Evening—Up and Hedging Operations

Chicago (U. S. D. A.)—Trading in wheat was at low ebb today, being limited practically to evening-up and hedging operations and some buying attributed to exporters. The result was a narrow, nervous market, with prices fluctuating over a cent range and closing about 1 cent lower.

The department of agriculture said stem rust damage in most of the wheat area probably would be light. The first of the August private crop reports indicated a reduction in wheat prospects during July but the figures were about in line with trade expectations.

Receipts were: wheat 162 cars, corn 179, oats 84.

Closing at the day's lows, wheat was 1-1/2 below yesterday's finish, September 67 1/4, December 69 1/4; corn 1-3/4 down, September 56 1/4, December 53 1/4; oats 1 1/4, off.

"I think we should recognize the intense interest not merely of the president of the government but also of the people of the United States in this matter."

Earlier, the British government's disclosure that the British destroyer Hero stood by without retaliating when a Spanish insurgent plane bombed and sank the steamer Delwyn Wednesday in the British-occupied port of Gandia, Spain, aroused bitter Laborite comment.

'Work Holiday' Called By Union at Racine

Racine (U. S. D. A.)—About 700 employees of the Massey-Harris company, manufacturer of farm implements, walked out of the plant late yesterday on what CIO union officials called a work holiday.

Warren Carlstrom, a union officer, said the workers sought a closed shop and union recognition.

might be "sold down the river." The S. W. O. C. proposed a contract to the firm March 31, 1937.

"There were a great many inquiries," White said, "asking of Republic was going to 'sell out.' Many of our employees were wondering if we were going to make a bargain with some one else when we had established employee representative relations with our men."

White said the contract offered by Clinton S. Golden, regional director for the S. W. O. C., provided no improvement in wages, hours or working conditions. Company officials, therefore, were concerned, he said, with the wear the signing such a contract might lead eventually to establishment of a "closed shop" in the steel industry.

"So far as you know," Committee Chairman LaFollette (P-Wis.) inquired, "this form of contract, signed by some of the other steel companies, has not resulted in a closed shop yet, has it?"

White said he thought some of the companies were "getting on very close ground" to such a situation.

"We didn't see," White said, "how we were going to have a contract that would not lead us into more trouble with the men who didn't want it, than with those that did—if they were not."

"We felt, very frankly, that the motive behind such a contract was the means to an end and the end would be to force our men unwillingly to sign up with the S.W.O.C. And the men felt the same way."

Meanwhile three Monroe, Mich., officials were called to testify about a "back-to-work" vote held preceding the reopening of Republic's Monroe plant last summer. The three called were Mayor Daniel Knaggs, Sheriff Joseph Bailey and Chief of Police Jess Fisher.

Week-end Digest of Business Activity In Appleton and Vicinity

Printing Is Both Art and Business At Van Rooy Shop

Swiftly, Effectively Cover Every Kind of Printing Requirement

Printing plays an important role in everyday lives. From the first gayly colored pictures of kindergarten days people have continually been in contact with the printed page. Each book, each newspaper, each magazine, each map, through the art of printing, discloses added knowledge. Business and personal printing customers are of course, beyond the stage of compulsory study. Adults must however, continue to rely on the printed word to provide stepping stones to successful careers.

All of this means very little but it does serve to point out and impress the fact that printing is an art as well as a business. Printing has been the business of the J. M. Van Rooy Printing company for a good many years. Commercial in that it provides forms and pamphlets for business use. But Van Rooy's never lose sight of the fact that printing is an art and consequently every job which it accepts demands and is given careful, individual attention.

Van Rooy Printing company, located at 127 N. Appleton street in the Hotel Appleton Building, has long been known for the dependability and attractiveness of its work and therefore, scores of business houses, organizations, and individuals rely on this firm to perform all its printing requirements. These customers say that they are always assured of receiving printing which pleases, sparkling with neatness and good taste.

Whatever your printing needs may be at this time, whether it is stationery, business or personal, calling cards, letterheads, business forms, formal invitations, direct mail advertising forms, bills, menus, programs, or announcements you will find the Van Rooy firm willing and able to do the work and above all fully capable of doing the job, efficiently, effectively, promptly, applying every printing art known to the profession, all with no added cost if you care to phone for information regarding any printing need telephone 1034

Retail Sales are Leading Business Toward Recovery

Upward Surge May be Expected in Fall, Babson Predicts

BY ROGER BABSON
Babson Park, Mass. — Merchants are selling almost as many goods today as they were last summer. This is hard to believe, but it is a fact. Department store sales for the entire country are averaging less than 10 per cent below a year ago in dollars. Meanwhile, price tags have fallen almost as much as that. Hence, unit sales of goods are close to the satisfactory levels of a year ago at this time. Furthermore, in many sections trade is actually above the 1937 volume. This, of course, is wonderful news. It means that we are in for a real surge in business this fall.

"We often forget that retail trade is one of the best barometers we have of future business. When stores are crowded, when goods are moving off the shelves and when cash registers are jingling, we can be sure that more workers will soon be having jobs in factories, that additional traffic will be moving along the railroads and that investors will be receiving bigger dividends. On the other hand, when people are not buying goods, a let-down in industrial activity is sure to follow.

Inventories Cleaned Out
Late last summer buying was beginning to fall off. People had bought all the goods they needed during the winter and spring of '37. Because of this and because of high retail prices, trade was slowing up by summer's end. As a result, when last Labor day rolled around, factories had but few new orders for goods. They had to lay off workers. Then everyone got frightened; stocks broke badly; and we had a discouraging business recession. Within six months from the time the break started, thousands of plants and mills all over the country were shut down tight. Industrial activity plunged 50 per cent below its peak.

The situation became more and more acute as 1938 moved along. Retail trade, however, did not sag so drastically. All during the fall, winter, and spring it averaged only 10 per cent below the corresponding months of the previous year. Furthermore, retail prices were constantly marked down, giving people added incentive to buy goods. Despite the fact that several million had been laid off, national purchasing power was not reduced materially. More government checks and higher farm income offset other losses in buying power. Furthermore, a big percentage of people, who always have money to spend for retail goods regardless of whether we are in prosperity or in depression, resumed their buying.

Retail Buying Wave
Consequently, retail sales dropped only moderately as against a sharp slump in industrial activity. Production through the spring was not equalling consumption. Inventories were cut down to rock bottom. This could not continue long. Suddenly, investors, deciding that the storm had blown itself out, rushed in to pick up good securities at bargain prices. This happened in the middle of June. Since then there has been a hurricane of good news. On every hand, we read about factories re-opening, of railroad traffic increasing, of homes and other big projects being constructed. Not since the days following the bank holiday of 1933 has there been so much an upswing as we have had in the last six weeks.

Leading the advance has been retail trade. More people have gone shopping each week since mid-June. Now, dollar buying is less than 10 per cent under last year at this time. Because of the sharp drop in prices, however, this means that merchants are selling as many goods, in number, as they were then. Steel activity, machine tool orders, carloadings, power production, building, and other powerful barometers are pointing to better business this fall. But more important than these — retail trade, which means the final movement of goods into consumers' hands, is rapidly picking up momentum.

Outlook Rosy
Because of this splendid gain in retail trade, plus bumper crops, billions being spent for relief, the skyrocketing of security prices, sharp advances in commodity quotations, the potential demand for goods, our huge credit reserve, and the mounting volume of construction, I look for the sharpest increase in business this fall in many years. Volume in the months ahead may not equal the volume of some good autumns in the past, such as 1936 or 1929. However, the speed of the business recovery between now and election day can surprise even the most optimistic observers.

Those who read my New Year forecast, written in the gloomy day of late December, 1937, may recall the following opening paragraph: "We are not entering a major depression. 1938 will see a resumption of the upward trend which began in 1934. The first quarter may be poor—much worse than the early months of 1937; but later in the year I look for a substantial recovery. I do not confuse this current sharp recession with a major depression! Payrolls, prices, stocks, real estate, and jobs should all be on their way up to new highs by the end of 1938."

Get Started Now
We may not, perhaps, reach new highs this year, but readers can count upon a tremendous upsurge in coming months. Merchants, manufacturers, bankers, salesmen, workers, and investors should capitalize on the upsurge which lies ahead. This is the time to get started. Do not wait until after Labor day and miss five full weeks

GRIST FUR HEADQUARTERS SPARKLES AS SALE BEGINS

Sparkling like one of the new fur coats for which this store is famous, the display room at Grist Furs, 231 E. College avenue, is particularly inviting in its new decorations and arrangements. The decorating, just completed in time for Grist's August sale of furs, is Franklin J. Grist's latest contribution to the comfort and pleasure of his customers. The store is noted for its comfort, made possible by a Delco-Frigidaire conditioning and cooling system that keeps the display rooms and workshops at healthy, cool temperatures, and protects the valuable fur coats stored in Grist's vault. Shoppers will be thrilled with the new beauty and comfort at Grist's and they'll be equally thrilled with the savings made possible by Grist's August sale.

Consider Former Owner When Looking At Used Cars; Wise to Consult Kloehn's

Probably the best way to judge the merits of used cars is by the people who owned them. After all, the kind and mileage mean less than the kind of care an automobile receives, and a 1935 model that has been kept in shape will give better service than a 1937 car which has been "run into the ground" through neglect and hard use.

This is undoubtedly why prospective used car buyers find it very much to their advantage to consult the O. R. Kloehn company, 213 E. Washington street, before making a choice. The Kloehn company is noted for its distinguished list of business and professional people and "home folks" who have purchased Buicks and Pontiacs. These are the people who take the best care of their cars, who do not subject them to unusual punishment, and who could have well gone on driving their cars but for their desire to own newer models.

Just now, the Kloehn inventory of reliable used cars is exceptionally high — what with the remarkable sales of Buicks and Pontiacs and the purchase can look forward to inspecting Packards, Oldsmobiles, Pontiacs, Foras, Chevrolets, Chryslers and Buicks that have been traded in recently for new Buicks and Pontiacs. It is as fine a stock in the firm's opinion, that has ever been offered at the Kloehn establishment.

Kloehn's realizes, moreover, that price is always a determining factor in the purchase of a new car. With this in mind, prices have been marked to lowest levels—quality considered—so that it is possible to buy real transportation for as little as $200. As a matter of fact the Kloehn price range extends from $30 up to $800 to meet practically every buying requirement.

Liberal Allowances
Kloehn also offers convenient terms payments at lowest available rates and is making liberal allowances on trad-ins. In most cases, an owner's present car will cover the down payment on a car from Kloehn's stock.

The factor of Buick sales—which finds Buick in fourth place in national new car sales, despite the fact that Buick is somewhat above the lowest price bracket—is one for every prospective used car buyer to consider. It means, of course, that trad-ins are extremely desirable. The Kloehn company is open this evening and every evening as well as on Sunday so that it is possible for the customer to visit at his convenience.

FIRESTONE SONS CARRY ON TRADITION

Carrying on the tire and rubber industry founded by their father, the late Harvey S. Firestone, the five Firestone brothers are shown here as they viewed a scale model of The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company's exhibit to be erected for the New York World's Fair in 1939.

The picture was taken following a luncheon at which the Firestone brothers were guests of Grover A. Whalen, president of the New York World's Fair Corporation. In the group, from left to right are Raymond C. Firestone, Russell A. Firestone, Grover A. Whalen, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., Leonard K. Firestone and Roger S. Firestone. The entire exhibit will cover 23 acres of ground. The exhibition building will house a full scale tire factory in actual operation, producing a finished tire every four minutes.

To demonstrate the part that rubber has played in the modernization of the American farm there will be a life-size reproduction of a fully equipped farm with a farm house, barns, silos and other farm buildings. Live stock roaming the fields will complete the rural scene.

Dioramas, historical pageants, and scientific demonstrations will dramatize the history of the rubber industry. Visual demonstrations will portray the fascinating story of rubber from the time it is gathered as latex, on the Firestone Plantations in Liberia, West Africa, until it becomes a finished product on the wheels of America.

At the top is shown the great rotunda entrance to the exhibit. The illuminated fin which surmounts the rotunda towers 100 feet in the air,

Everpure Brings Convenience and Definite Economy

Laux Company Has Complete Range of Sizes In Refrigerator

The new Everpure, conditioned air refrigerator, offered by J. P. Laux and Sons, 903 N. Union street, provides so much extra convenience and economy, owners say, that it is without a doubt the most treasured possession of every home. Scores of purchasers of the new Everpure in this area testify to its outstanding serviceability and remarkable performance.

Everpure is known as a refrigerator with many cold drafts of circulating, humidified, washed and purified air, traveling under, around, and over the ice. In addition to this Multi-Draft principle, which is known by its improved tubular grid, suspends the beads of water on the under side of the grid tubes longer, thereby doing a more thorough job of washing and cooling with the same amount of ice than other similar refrigerators. This super method of circulation, aid-conditioning, and washing is unsurpassed in refrigeration, the Laux firm explains and provides the low, properly humidified temperatures demanded today for food protection.

Special refrigerator steel and galvanized steel re-rolled for surface smoothness with paint-grip surface is used exclusively for inside and out. The food chamber floor is porcelain with rounded corners and the finish is DuPont White DeLux, high baked, two coat polished surface, considered the finest metal obtainable. The framing is composed of odorless Wisconsin hardwood which has been properly air-seasoned and kiln-dried. Insulation is of Armstrong Cork and Insulation Company's efficient Glass Wool which is properly sealed. The hardware is rust proof and door openings are insulated with Bakelite and Sanilite breaker strips.

These and other important features make up the specification list of the new Everpure. Of special importance, besides the points mentioned, is the Everpure's special removable shelves of the new Banjo type with rust-resisting finish and its aluminum drain pipe, glass trap and seat all easily removed for cleaning.

Everpure engineers have designed in this new model the very latest in thorough and economical food preservation plus its new reeling feature. Regardless of room temperatures, an average temperature of 45 to 50 degrees and humidity of from 60 to 70 per cent is constantly maintained in the food chamber of this beautiful, stream-lined refrigerator.

The Laux company, headquarters for pure manufactured ice, offers a wide range of Everpure models, ranging from family size to the large commercial sizes.

Well, summer is about half gone. What has your child accomplished since school closed last spring? No one will dispute the fact that a man's habits are formed in a great extent in his childhood. You can create in him a desire to learn new things, and to accomplish new tasks, which are put before him by giving him the right kind of mental training.

A statement made by a well known college professor reads in part—"As a mind trainer, music is the best on the list." There is still time to give your child "mind training" this summer. We enroll new students each week. We know that you will share his joy of new learning as each lesson comes and goes.

Shellane Brings New Freedom for Folks Out of City

Appleton Appliance Co. Also Offers Electro-lux and Ruud Lines

It was once the unhappy lot of the housewife who lived beyond the city gas mains to spend long hours slaving over a hot, balky stove, enduring long hours of drudgery in a hot, messy kitchen. Now, the $3,000,000 product, familiar everywhere under the name of Shellane, bottle gas makes possible escape from this back-breaking toil and strain.

Cooking failures are eliminated through use of Shellane with no more cooking in a hot, steamy kitchen. Shellane makes precision cooking a simple job and makes the most modern menus easy to prepare. The former task of building fires and carrying fuel is done away with of course. Shellane, then, too, lights instantly and gives off no odor, soot, nor does it leave any residue on pots or pans.

Through installation of an automatic gas water heater at small cost a continuous supply of hot water is available for dishwashing, shower baths, and laundering. In addition, Shellane also keeps food cool and fresh because it operates, too, an Electrolux refrigerator which has no moving parts, thereby eliminating repairs, and assuring continuous and silent operation.

The Appleton Appliance company with headquarters at 219 N. Story street, operated by N. J. Lassel-yon, owner, with Kenneth R. Mokros, salesmanager, offers the famous Shellane bottled gas service which makes these comforts possible. The firm maintains a constant supply for users and installs full cylinders wherever and whenever needed.

It features also the Universal Gas Range, the Servel Electrolux Refrigerator, and the Ruud Automatic Gas Water Heater. Exclusive local distributor agency of these nationally famous appliances is held by this firm. Floor model demonstrations are available without obligation at its local headquarters. The phone number is 6742, if you care to call for an appointment.

Beirnard's Leave Sunday to Attend Music Convention

Over 2 Million Worth of Instruments on Display in Chicago

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Beirnard of the Beirnard Piano store, 209 N. Appleton street announced today they will leave Sunday for Chicago, to attend the annual trade show and convention of the National Association of Music Merchants to be held August 1 to 4 at the Stevens Hotel.

"Many innovations in piano styling will be shown for the first time at this convention," said Mr. Beirnard. "In order to insure my customers the finest in musical instruments, I want to see all of the models of the various manufacturers."

More than $2,000,000 worth of instruments, ranging from piccolos to pipe organs, will be on display at convention headquarters. These will include streamlined grand pianos as well as the latest styles in the new console types.

Because of the great growth of interest in music, he said, the music industry was affected less than most business by the recent depression. He pointed out that piano sales last year were 300 per cent ahead of 1932.
